No Action Taken To Repair Armory At Present Time

Armory Committee Reconsidered Recommendation to Spend $25,000—Polling Places Leased for $10 a Day—Hearing Held on Movie Operators' Ordinance—Other Matters.

Following the holding of two public hearings by the laws and rules committee, the common council met in special session Thursday evening, but failed to take action on an ordinance drafted and presented by local movie operators requiring the licensing of all movie operators in the city when opposition to the ordinance developed at the public hearing. The work of repairing the old armory will not be done at this time, and the committee so reported. An ordinance will be drafted and adopted making Grand and Prince streets at the Post Office Plaza one-way streets as no opposition to the plan was made at the public hearing.

No Objections Made

Alderman Charles Derrenbacher of the laws and rules committee opened the public hearing on the proposal to make Grand and Prince streets one-way streets from and into Broadway at the post office plaza. This had been recommended by the traffic control committee of the council. No one appeared in opposition to the plan, and later at the meeting of the aldermen the corporation counsel was directed to prepare an ordinance covering the matter which will be adopted by the council.

Ewig Opposed Ordinance.

The second public hearing was on an ordinance that had been drafted and presented by some of the movie operators of Kingston and which would require the licensing of every movie operator in the city. Section four of the proposed ordinance provided that the license board consist of four movie operators, two from the Orpheum Theatre, one from the Broadway Theatre and the other from Reade's Kingston Theatre, while the fifth member of the board would be the fire chief.

Attorney Arthur B. Ewig appeared in opposition to the ordinance, which he said was sponsored by the local union here and was intended as a reprisal against Thomas J. Little, of the town of Rosendale, who had been reinstated in the local union after considerable litigation, but that since his reinstatement last May he had not had a day's work. Mr. Ewig pointed out that the ordinance proposed appointing four members of the board from the three local theatres, which would be objectionable. He said that there was no need of an ordinance of this kind in Kingston.

Mr. Sherry, of the Orpheum Theatre, spoke in favor of the ordinance. He said the idea had originated in Newburgh, where they had a similar ordinance for several years and that it was working very satisfactorily.

No others desiring to be heard, the hearing was closed.

The laws and rules committee did not sumbit a report on the proposed ordinance at the special meeting later and no action was taken by the aldermen in the matter.

Want Street Improved.

The council then met in special meeting with Alderman Haines presiding.

A petition was read from residents of Mountainview avenue asking that the work relief grade and improve the street so as to put it in a safe and passable condition, the property owners agreeing to do all curbing as required after receiving the correct grades. The petition was referred to the work relief committee.

No Armory Action

The armory committee which met recently and decided to ask the council to borrow $25,000 to make repairs to the old armory evidently had reconsidered its action for it reported that it recommended that no action be taken at the present time to repair the building. The report was adopted.

Alderman Zucca, a member of the committee, said that no action was taken owing to the financial condition of the city at the present time.

One-Way Streets

The laws and rules committee reported favorably on making Grand and Prince streets one-way streets from and into Broadway at the post office plaza. The report was adopted and Corporation Counsel Flanagan directed to draft the necessary ordinance.

The election committee reported that it had signed leases for all of the polling places in the city at a rental of $10 a day with the exception of the polling place in the first district of the Sixth ward, which was owned by Mr. Lankisky who refused to accept that rental.

Alderman Epstein of that ward told the committee that another suitable polling place would be obtained.

To Repair Voting Machines

Alderman Zucca reported he had received word from the voting machine factory that they would have a man here on Monday to inspect and make any necessary repairs to the city's voting machines. He said he had arranged with the board of public works to have the voting machines placed on the floor of the old armory where the expert from the factory would be able to do the work much better and quicker.

The work relief bureau was directed to file a report of its past year's activities with the council.

The aldermen then adjourned.

National Reemployment Service Opened In Kingston For Ulster

This morning a county office of the National Reemployment Service was opened in the Municipal Building, East O'Reilly street, for the purpose of assisting the unemployed and employer in filling jobs that become available as contracts for public works are let. According to W. H. Winans, New York state director, the local project to be immediately affected is the building of a bridge in Saugerties, on which it is expected that work will start about August 21. The contract for this bridge has been tentatively awarded to Harrington Engineering Company, 52 Liberty street, New York city.

The office in Kingston will give an opportunity for registration to the unemployed—both those now on relief and those who have been self-sustaining—so that "selected lists of qualified workers may be submitted to employers." As soon as registration in this central office is under way, offices will be set up in other centers in the county and schedules will be publicly announced. Registration hours in the Kingston office, for the time being at least, will be from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. The local manager of the National Reemployment Service in Ulster county is William E. Tinney, of Port Ewen.

The members of the local Reemployment Committee, who have been appointed by Mr. Winans in cooperation with Frederick I. Daniels, executive director of the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, are: Daniel Vanderlyn, president of the Board of Education in Ellenville; Harry P. Rich, general manager of Brigham Brother's Brickyard, East Kingston; E. W. Carpenter, banker, of Marlborough; Robert E. Decker, manager of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company, Marlborough; James A. Phelan, business man, of Kingston; and Francis W. Heimerle, superintendent of the Kingston office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The relief representative on the committee is Harry P. Rich.

Besides selecting the local manager, in cooperation with the State Re-employment Director and the State Relief Director, this committee has administrative responsibility for the establishment and conduct of the local re-employment service in this county.

Os especial interest to the unemployed are the following rules and regulations governing re-employment offices, according to Mr. Winans:

While qualified workers will be selected from among those who have been self-sustaining as well as those on relief, they will be chosen not in the order of registration but entirely on their qualifications for the job. Selections from work-relief lists will be made among those who have established good work records.

Only persons wanting the kind of jobs available—bridge construction—and qualified for it—should apply for registration, unless and until notified through public announcement that additional jobs are available on other public works projects or in private employment.

The minimum rate of pay on bridge construction is 40 cents an hour; the maximum working hours per week, 30 hours average and not to exceed 130 hours per month.

Legal preferences will be given to ex-service men with dependents and to unemployed workers who are residents of this county.

The establishment of a county Reemployment Office in Ulster county is in accordance not only with the labor policy of the Special Board of Public Works in Washington, but also with the rules and regulations of the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. These provide, among other things, for the following:

"All contracts for work to be done under these regulations shall provide that labor required for such projects and appropriately to be secured through local employment services shall be selected from qualified workers referred by employment agencies designated by the United States Employment Service. The State Highway Departments shall include the above stated requirement in their contracts."

Two Make Escape Steal Automobile, Rob Gas Station

State Trooper Senecal Recovers Stolen Car And One of Boys Who Made Break From State School at Warwick—Other Boy Still at Large Near Boiceville.

Two messages received over the police teletype at the city hall on Thursday and today were linked together later in the morning when State Trooper Paul Senecal appeared at police headquarters with Dominick Decico, 17, of 68 William street, White Plains, whom he had captured after a chase at Boiceville. Raymond Geron, 16, of Syracuse, who was with Decico, was still at large near Boiceville this morning, but a search was being made for him by the authorities.

The message received Thursday stated that the two youths had made their escape from the state school at Warwick, and gave their descriptions.

This morning another teletype message was received that a Chevrolet coach owned by Mrs. Gertrude Vance of Rock Tavern, Orange county, had been stolen about 5 o'clock this morning.

Later in the morning Trooper Senecal while riding through Boiceville drew up in his car ahead of the two youths who were trudging along the road. The boys looked up and when they saw the trooper's uniform they promptly parted company, one lad turning off the road to the right and the other to the left.

Trooper Senecal jumped out of his car and pursued one of the lads, capturing Decico. When the lad was searched $24.61 in money was found in his pockets. The money was in one dollar bills.

At police headquarters the boy said that he and his companion after stealing the automobile had broken into a gas station and that the other boy had the other half of the amount of money stolen. Decico said he was not acquainted with the country hereabouts and could not locate where the gas station was that he said he and his chum had robbed.

From the story as told by the boy it dereloped that they had driven over into Ulster county and had gotten as far as Mt. Tremper when they decided to turn around. They turned the car into a driveway and then got stuck and were unable to straighten the car out into the road.

They then abandoned the car and started walking and were in Boiceville when found by Trooper Senecal.

At the request of Trooper Senecal the local police department sent a message over the teletype to ascertain if any gas stations had been burglarized in an effort to locate the gas station where the boy said they had obtained the money.

Mahatma Gandhi Weakening

Poona, India, Aug. 18 (AP)—As the Mahatma Gandhi entered the third day of his "fast until death," the government of India announced today that it was prepared to liberate him if he abandoned civil disobedience. The Mahatma began to show signs of weakness, although his voice remained strong. Reports from Yeroda jail, where he is serving one year for his disobedience campaign, were that he had started saving his strength by staying in bed, attended only by his secretary.

Young Man Drowns In The Weirs As Efforts To Revive Him Fail

T. F. Dolan, Long Island Youth, Sank While Swimming Thursday Afternoon—Efforts to Restore Life Proved Futile.

Thomas F. Dolan, Jr., 24 years old, of 184-40 Galoway street, Hollis, L. I., was drowned Thursday afternoon at The Weirs, a favorite swimming place on the lower side of the main Ashokan dam where the bed of the Esopus creek formerly was prior to the reservoir construction. Thomas with his two younger brothers, William and John, who were summering at West Shokan, went swimming during the afternoon. At about 4:15 o'clock Thomas was swimming about 30 feet from shore when his brother William, who was seated on the rocks at the side of the pool, observed a strange look on his brother's face. He disappeared in the water and failed to again come to the surface. John Dolan who was on a raft further down the pool was notified and efforts were made to recover the body.

The body was recovered about 5 o'clock by George Smith of Olive Bridge, who dived twice into the pool and on the second dive recovered the body. Edward Sohn of 8753 123rd street, Richmond Hill, L. I., assisted in the work of recovering the body.

Mrs. F. E. O'Connor of 91 Main street this city who was at the pool rushed to a phone at the Mitchell store and notified the local police and called for a doctor. The local police notified the sheriff's office and Deputy Sheriffs Clayton W. Vredenburg and Jay Molyneaux hastened to the scene from the sheriff's office. Mrs. O'Connor immediately on hearing the cry for help notified the authorities and also called Dr. S. A. Windsor of Ashokan who responded.

After the body had been recovered Walter Jones of Brooklyn and Marvin Doremus of Woodstock, an employe of the telephone company, attempted to revive Dolan by artificial respiration but their efforts were of no avail and Coroner W. N. Conner was notified by Jay Molyneaux and Oscar Dudley.

Dr. Windsor after an examination pronounced the young man dead, but by the request of sisters of the young man he was taken to the Kingston Hospital where Dr. Krom was called and also Firemen Leverett who responded with the pulmotor. However efforts at the hospital failed to revive the youth and Coroner Conner gave a verdict of death by accidental drowning.

The body was taken in charge by Mr. Conner and removed to his Funeral Home on Fair street where it was held pending arrangements by the family.

U. S. Wars on Suspects In Lindbergh Murder; Four Men Die in Chair

Hint Solution of Lindbergh Baby Murder Mystery Might Be Near—Four Die in Electric Chair But Crime Continues.

By The Associated Press

The law is sometimes stupid, and rogues sneer; but the law is inexorable, and rogues snivel, cringe—and die.

Four of them walked "the last mile" between yesterday's sunset and today's dawn, sitting down to death in the electric chair to pay for the murders they had done. One was a negro, R. T. Bennett. The state of Texas electrocuted him for murdering a Dallas woman—strangling her with a silk stocking.

Sing Sing saw the others die. The three men were executed at six minute intervals. Two died for murder committed during a New York city holdup. The third, Stephen Witherell, had killed his father, robbed him and then gone on a honeymoon.

It was Witherell who just before starting the march to the death chair—the last agonizing mile—whined:

"I don't rate the deal I'm getting."

The law, like the jaws of a steel trap, was snapping shut, too, on other hunted men elsewhere. An Arkansas posse snared Gene Johnson, and shot him dead when he offered fight. He was wanted for murdering a Kansas police officer. They say he was one of Underhill's men—Wilbur Underhill, dreaded gunman of the southwest.

Johnson's wife, wanted in connection with a Kansas bank robbery, was wounded and captured; but Leroy Wright, another of the bad men whose guns have blazed death and terror in Kansas, escaped. Bloodhounds bent their noses to the ground of the wild country near Siloan Springs, but lost the trail. Posses pushed the search for him today in Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

From Denver came significant evidence of the law's persistence. It hinted that solution of the Lindbergh baby murder mystery might be near.

For more than a year the hunt for the abductor-killer of the child has gone on. Herbert Hoover, then president, promised that the federal government would never cease its search until the crime was solved. The New Jersey state police, too, dedicated themselves to running down the killer or killers, however long the trail.

Today at Denver two Federal agents, described as having been assigned to the murder hunt "for life" probed the pasts of Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, both now in cells and this gave rise to the suggestion that these men and the gang to which they belonged may be suspected of the Lindbergh murder. Bailey is held in Texas for the Urschel kidnaping at Oklahoma City, and Bates is held at Denver in connection with a thwarted kidnap plot.

Arkansas is having its full quota of crime. Mark Shank, the Akron, O., attorney who told police he poisoned four members of a family and who yesterday at his arraignment pleaded not guilty, was removed from Benton, Ark., to Little Rock for safekeeping. The temper of crowds in the Benton street influenced the police decision to move him. His wife at Akron telegraphed: "Have full confidence in you—Love."

At Grundy, Va., Matilda Roberts continued to deny knowledge of how three men were slain in an automobile in which she admitted she was a passenger.

But as the law struck, crime went on the same. John Donovan, a 65-year-old recluse, was found brutally slain at his Elizabeth, N. J., home late last night. The body lay in a pool of blood. The head had been bashed: as though with an ax. The house was in extreme disorder—drawers pulled from dressers, doors to closets ripped from their hinges and mattresses and pillows torn open.

The body of a truck driver, James Palermo, was found near a roadway in Astoria (Queens) New York. He had been trussed in a manner so that every struggle to free himself tightened a rope about his neck. So that he garroted himself. The manner of his death was much like that of Joseph Weshefsky, a convict, found similarly trussed in an automobile parked in front of New York police headquarters last December.

Automobile Code Gets Attention

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP).—A thirty-four hour week and a minimum of 60 cents an hour were demanded of the automobile manufacturing industry today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, at the hearing on the code proposed by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The manufacturers had proposed a minimum wage rate ranging from 41 to 43 cents an hour, dependent upon the size of the city in which the industry was located. They also had proposed an average 35 hour week and a maximum of 48 hours in seasonal periods.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Reilly of 11 Josephine avenue, a daughter.

Mary Catherine, at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Quigley of 63 Maple street, a daughter, Jacquelin Anne.

President Wants the Blue Eagle on Steel And Coal by Saturday

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt's personal insistence put greater intensity today into his recovery administration's drive to place the blue eagle on steel and coal by Saturday night.

NRA headquarters were crowded with representatives of these great industries who hovered about the office of Hugh S. Johnson while in the commerce department auditorium below automobile men were called to a public hearing on their recovery recommendations.

Oil's spokesmen were busy meanwhile analyzing the production-control, price-supervision code handed to them by Johnson with the simultaneous announcement it was going to President Roosevelt this afternoon.

Johnson looked for a steel agreement today and was hopeful over the coal outlook. Both industries understood that Mr. Roosevelt wanted their codes on his desk before leaving for Hyde Park tomorrow.

Steel negotiations dealt chiefly with regional wage minimums and the basing point system of naming prices. Johnson had reports on these issues from government statisticians and from Donals Richberg, recovery administration counsel.

But still underlying the situation was the feeling caused by steel's recent refusal to confer with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Green's interpretation that this was representative of steel's inherent opposition to organization of its workers.

Labor questions also provided the sore-thumb in coal. Bituminous operators had from Mr. Roosevelt himself a request for a single trade code that should contain no open-shop clause. Despite the presidential admonition, some of the operators reiterated their insistence upon the open shop.

A single coal code, drafted by the administration, was ready to be handed to representatives of all the operators by Johnson, but its contents had not been disclosed in advance.

Green, labor advisor to the automobile hearing, was in open revolt against open-shop language in that code. In addition to the collective bargaining provision of the industrial recovery law, the automobile men propose to add a paragraph, approved by Johnson, that "employers in the industry may continue the open shop policy."

Strict Penalties May Be Invoked

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP).—Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery chief, said today the penalty provisions of the law were intended only for "recalcitrant minorities" but that they would be used fully when necessary.

At the same time, the administrator told newspapermen that the "influx of codes and the exhaustion of NRA insignia makes it look as though the Blue Eagle campaign is going over even more rapidly than I expected."

Shortly before, in opening the hearing of an automobile code, Johnson had described the re-employment campaign as "drawing to a close," adding that it has "covered the country from one end to the other with Blue Eagles."

Discussing the penalties in the Recovery Act, the administrator repeated that it was intended that under the code, industry should govern itself.

He said he expected the bulk of every industry to move together "in this great cooperating effort" but whenever it was necessary to use the penalties provision, including licensing of industries and fines or jail sentences, it would be done.

SAPIRO EXTRADITION HEARD BY GOVERNOR

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—Governor Lehman today sifted the testimony for and against the extradition of Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney and one-time organizer of farm cooperatives, now under indictment in Chicago on a charge of engaging in a laundry "racket."

Sapiro, taking the stand in his own behalf in a hearing before the Governor yesterday, attempted to prove that he was in New York city on May 30, the date mentioned in the indictment.

Counsel for the Chicago Laundry Owners Association, which was involved in a racket investigation, Sapiro was indicted with Al Capone and others for conspiracy to commit malicious mischief.

"The sole purpose of indicting Capone with the others was to link his name with theirs," declared David P. Seizel, Sapiro's counsel. "It is a matter of common knowledge that Capone was in prison at the time the alleged conspiracy took place."

Three witnesses, including Judge Harold Simando of Newark, testified that they visited Sapiro in New York on the same day on which he is alleged to have been racketeering in Chicago.

250 French Soldiers Killed.

Paris, Aug. 18 (AP).—Government dispatches reported that 250 French soldiers, most of them native troops, were killed the past week in clashes aimed at cleaning up the last rebel strongholds in the Atlas mountains. Thousands of insurgents have surrendered to the 25,000 troops engaged in the warfare.

Lawmakers Cannot Agree on New York City Tax Program

Democratic and Republican Leaders in Legislature Holding Conference, Hope To Iron out Differences—Several of Governor Lehman's Bills Have Been Approved and Await His Signature—Assembly Approves Measures.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—Still unable to agree upon a tax program to enable New York city to raise funds for unemployment relief, Democratic and Republican leaders of the legislature went into another conference this afternoon to determine whether the senate and assembly desks can be cleared for adjournment sine die tonight or tomorrow.

The Republican assembly sidetracked into its judiciary committee the blanket tax bill passed by the Democratic Senate last night and permitting New York city to levy virtually any new tax it needs within its own borders.

The Republican plan apparently was to put through the same amendments to the bill which the Republican leadership in the senate tried unsuccessfully to make before it was passed last night. The amendments were designed to provide protection for upstate residents against any special New York city taxes, such as a city stock transfer tax.

Before recessing for the conference the Republicans passed several of Governor Lehman's program bills which also have been approved by the Senate and now go to the executive for his signature. One of these sets up a $6,000,000 fund for grade crossing elimination projects, in anticipation of allotments from the $3,200,000,000 Federal fund for public works. Another clarifies the stock transfer tax law. The liquor license, tax and control bills passed by the Senate last night were not read in the lower house.

The Swartz-Hendel bill for the improvement of the Barge Canal at the expense of the Federal government was passed by the Assembly and sent to the Senate over the objection of the northeastern New York bloc, the vote being 121 to 23.

The lower house also passed Assemblyman Albert L. Brown's bill permitting the city of Binghamton to issue bonds to refund certain short term obligations, while Assemblyman Irwin W. Steingut, Democratic leader, attempted to link up the situation in Binghamton with that of New York.

"We're not alone in our financial predicament," Steingut said, referring to the fact that the special session was called to help New York raise new revenues. "Lots of communities find themselves in the same fix, and not because of mismanagement. If this session lasted another week or ten days there would be 50 other cities asking for the same sort of relief. We could stay here all summer and we'd still have them coming in."

The Assembly also passed and sent to Governor Lehman the bill of Senator William H. Lee, Lockport Republican, permitting his city to sell bonds for $208,275.44 in connection with a sewer improvement. This bill was substituted for that of Assemblyman Fayette E. Pease, Lockport Republican, which also had been approved by the lower house.

Waiting For Special Code Not Proper, Is Statement Of NRA

Recovery Committee Says All Should Sign Blanket Code, If Program is to be Successful—What Will Be Done to NRA Violators—Complaints.

The following statement was today released by the local NRA committee following communication with New York headquarters:

"Our experience indicates that there is a widespread misapprehension among employers with respect to their obligations to sign and comply with the president's blanket code. Large numbers have failed to sign the president's re-employment agreement stating as a reason, or justification, that a permanent code for the industry was in the course of being formulated and submitted to Washington.

"These employers have believed, in good faith, that they had no obligations. This is contraryto the very purpose of the president's agreement, and persistence in this error is destructive of the recovery program. The very purpose of the president's agreement is to bridge over the time which must elapse between the present and the approval of a permanent code, so the forces of recovery may be set in motion at once without delay. The public should know that the pending of a permanent code is no excuse for failure to sign and put into effect the president's agreement, and that such omission is contrary to the purpose of the NRA."

"What is going to be done with those dealers, merchants, industrials or others who are displaying the NRA and not living up to its obligations," has been repeatedly asked of the local NRA committee.

Colonel Donnarumma answering, states: "Let me quote Postmaster General James A. Farley when he spoke in New York on August 12: 'Individuals signing the President's Re-employment Agreement and sending it through the mails are liable to prosecution under that section covering fraudulent use of the mails.' Since all who sign this agreement must send it through the mails, they are affected by the decision of the postmaster general. Also let me quote Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the National Recovery Administration, who recently addressed the country over a national radio hookup. Mr. Richberg said: 'A violator should unlerstand that he cannot get the blue eagle back again when it has been taken away because of his bad faith.'"

Colonel Donnarumma announced also in behalf of "General" Bernard Culloton that complaints will be strictly held in confidence and that complaints must be made in writing and must be signed. No one need to fear to make a complaint for they will be fully protected by the local committee, concerning identity and origin of complaint. It is this cooperation between consumer and dealer which shall make the NRA a success. Complaints should be addressed to "General" Bernard A. Culloton, NRA Headquarters, Y. M. C. A., Kingston.

Plans for the NRA demonstration on August 31 are being developed and in a few days the parade committee will be announced.

The public is urged to read all NRA news carefully and listen ti the radio for all NRA information.

Two Runaway Boys Were Taken Home

Elmer Morch, 16, and Clayton Egan, 14, both of Stamford, Conn., who ran away from home the other day to visit the Century of Progress at Chicago, and who were found asleep in a Ford roadster on Main street extension early Thursday morning, are again back home with their families.

The father of the Egan boy came to Kingston Thursday afternoon after the local police department had notified the Stamford authorities that the two boys had been picked up here, and took both boys back to Stamford with him.

The Ford roadster which the boys had was still in the police garage today. The boys said they had bought the car in Beacon for $10, and finding some license plates had placed them on the car.

Historic Building Damaged

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—The old Northeast British Blockhouse at Old Fort Niagara, 14 miles north of this city, was struck by lightning during a rain and electrical storm today, and fire which followed seriously damaged the historic building. Military officials at the fort said the damage would reach $4,000.

BOMBING ATTRIBUTED TO BEER PRICE WAR

Rochester, N. Y. Aug. 18 (AP)—The bombing early today of the Square Deal Cafe on State street was attributed by police to a retailers' beer price war.

An eye witness whose name police withheld said he saw a man toss an object through the transom as he was waiting for a street car about 3 a. m.

The blast which followed wrecked the cafe, and shook the neighborhood, causing damage estimated at $1,000.

Guy Borelli, the proprietor, told police the cafe was damaged to the extent of $600 two weeks ago by an incendiary fire.

Police said they believed the bombing the work of neighborhood beer dealers, who were envious of Borelli's business, which reached large proportions when he started selling 12 ounces of beer for a nickel.

MARY MOORE SAID SHE WAS NOT GUILTY OF CHARGE

Mary Moore of 78 North Front street, was arrested by Lillian Doughty of the same address on Thursday afternoon and turned over to the police on a charge of disorderly conduct. She is charged with using vile language, and when arraigned before Judge Charles de la Verne in police court this morning pleaded not guilty and the hearing was fixed for Monday morning. Bail bond of $50 was continued.

TWO MEN ARRESTED CHARGED WITH STAGING A FIGHT

Paul Rose of 615 Broadway and Edward Glennon of 6 Thomas street, were arrested early this morning by Officer James P. Martin, who charged both men with staging a street fight on Broadway near Thomas street. Their hearings were set down for Saturday morning in police court.

Many Entries for Dutchess Fair

The Dutchess County Fair officials are greatly pleased to find that the demand for entry blanks for exhibitors at the annual Dutchess County Fair to be held at Rhinebeck August 28, 30, 31 and September 1, is much larger than in any year past. Although the actual space occupied by the exhibition tents approximates four acres, in addition to the many permanent buildings, fair officials feel that it may be necessary to enlarge the plant to accommodate all exhibitors who are anxious to compete for a part of the $16,000 in prizes offered at the fair.

Dutchess county has some of the finest high bred registered cattle in the country, and it is a well-known fact that Dutchess county fruit, vegetables and flowers are unexcelled. It is expected that the display in all of these departments will not only be larger but even better in quality than ever before.

Three high-class harness races on each of the first three days, and the auto races on Friday, September 1, under the auspices of the American Automobile Association are each in themselves expected to draw huge crowds.

The officials also announce that they have given special thought to the children as well as to the grown-ups when they purchased the attractions to be given in front of the grand stand. In addition to the several acts appearing this year, they have contracted for two performing bears who will cause no end of enjoyment to the kiddies. They skate, walk on stilts and do many other stunts, including riding a nine-foot high bicycle. Mother and dad, as well as the kiddies, will enjoy this show, also the many other acts provided by the nationally known Boyd & Wirth Attractions, Inc.

CHIMNEYED FRAME HOMES OUST CHILE'S SMOKY HUTS.

Santiago, Chile (AP).—Homes constructed of wood, until recently a novelty here, are becoming more common under a campaign instituted by Fernando Garcia Oldini, minister of labor.

Most homes of the working classes are of adobe, with packed earth for a floor. There are few chimneys and smoke causes much eye trouble.

The minister thinks frame houses much superior in every way. He says there has been considerable progress in the south, where German settlements have helped spread the idea.

Chilean lumber is finding a new home market, too, though it is difficult to force the Chilean worker from the traditions of years.

CHILE CUTS ITSELF IN FOR HALF OF FERTILIZER PROFIT.

Arica, Chile (AP).—All guano concessions along the Chilean coast have been cancelled by a government decree.

A new plan for exploitation is being drawn up, including a provision giving the government 50 per cent of the profits.

Most of the guano exports compete with Chilean nitrates and the administration hopes to keep the natural fertilizer out of the nitrate markets.

California Woman Fascists' Leader Of Social Welfare On Italian Island

Donna Marian Dusmet, the former Marian Powers of San Francisco, is in charge of fascist social welfare work on the island of Capri. She is shown with four of her young helpers.

Island of Capri, Italy (AP).—Donna Marian Dusmet, wife of the Mayor of Capri, is the only American in Italy chosen to head a fascist organization.

Prior to her marriage she was Miss Marian Powers, of San Francisco. As leader of the "Fascio Feminile," or women's fascist group, of Capri, she takes an active part in social welfare work among native young women of the island.

Recently through her personal initiative 60 Caprese girls were sent to Rome to view the National Fascist Exposition.

For a foreigner to become a member of the fascist party is a feat difficult of accomplishment, but for one to become head of a fascist organization is without precedent in blackshirt history.

Far East Lures South America to Trade Test

By GIDEON SEYMOUR

Buenos Aires (AP).—South America is looking to the Far East for new commercial opportunities.

With European and North American markets glutted by surpluses or walled off by quotas and tariffs, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay and Peru have sent to the Orient trade emissaries and trial shipments of meat, wheat, wool, cotton and hides.

Will Japan Eat Meat?

If 65,000,000 Japanese, already buying Argentine wool and Brazilian cotton, can be induced to balance with bread, beef and mutton from the pampas their ration of fish and rice, the market will be a boon to a continent where production costs are among the lowest in the world.

Trade between South American countries and Japan is so new, and still so small, that statistics do not portray the ascending interest in it. They show that Argentina sends to Japan less than one per cent of its exports, and buys from that country only 2.2 per cent of its imports.

This compares insignificantly with the United Kingdom, which last year bought 30 per cent of Argentine exports and sold here 20 per cent of all imports.

British Parallel Seen.

But the thickly peopled islands of Japan offer an economic analogy with the British Isles. If Japan can be sold meat, it can use frozen meats.

These can be shipped any distance, but must be consumed within a day or two of their removal from refrigerated holds. Thus they go only to concentrated and populous markets.

A consortium of Argentine meat producers has been formed to develop the Japanese market. A ministry of agriculture mission to Japan has been proposed. Argentine wool sales to Japan have grown 10 per cent per annum since 1930. Japanese fisheries are negotiating with Argentina for the right to exploit fishing waters here.

Brazil Sends Cotton

Brazil, which has 125,000 Japanese colonists and is admitting 25,000 more this year, has just sent its first shipment of raw cotton to Japan. It went at reduced freights granted by a steamship line subsidized by the Tokyo government.

Japan buys 700,000 tons of raw cotton a year, 48 per cent from the United States and 42 per cent from India. Brazil will produce this year 150,000 tons of cotton, and Japan is eager to buy from Brazil so it may sell there toys, tableware and textiles.

Brazil can use little Japanese tea, and Japan little Brazilian coffee, but Brazil sees a Nipponese market for cocoa, hides, jerked beef, and the manganese used in steel production.

Chinese Market Tried

Uruguay, enjoying a brisk business with Japan in wool and hides, has sent a government emissary to study meat marketing opportunities in Japan and China. To China minor attention also has been paid by Argentina, which recently sold there and in Japan the first Argentine wheat ever sent to the Orient.

Peru, shortly before the Leticia dispute with Colombia, sent a special naval mission to Japan for instruction and observation. Military circles understand that Peru obtained war materials from Japan in exchange for guano.

Where Britain Doesn't Rule

The Indian states, covering more than one-third of India and comprising almost one-fourth of its population, are not under British administration.

Dairymen Hope For New Board

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—Formation of a new organization "which will really represent the milk producers of the New York milk shed and safeguard their interests" is promised as an outgrowth of yesterday's meeting at Utica attended by 3,000 dairymen.

The milk producers also authorized a committee to "represent the dairy farmers at any investigation that may be made by the governor, the legislature or the milk control board or any other body appointed for that purpose."

Former Supreme Court Justice Louis M. Martin of Clinton told the dairymen they ought not to listen to suggestions of repealing the Pitcher bill under which the control board was set up.

Both he and Congressman Fred J. Sisson of Utica pointed out that the bill was a great step forward for dairymen because it recognizes the milk business as a public utility.

The leaders at yesterday's meeting, including most of the leaders in the recent milk strike, said the strike accomplished its purpose in proving that dairymen are not satisfied with the policy of the board and particularly the operation of the classified price plan.

At Syracuse Commissioner Charles H. Baldwin, chairman of the board, declined to comment on the action taken by the dairymen. He said he will welcome the committee appointed to appear before the board at the hearings in Albany next week.

"In fact," he said, "we extend a blanket invitation to everyone to attend these meetings and present their views. If the committee named at Utica has a definite program to offer we will gladly receive it."

CONSERVATION DEPARTMENT EMPLOYES HAD OUTING

Members of the Kingston office of the Conservation Department, division of fish and game, with game protectors of the district, which includes Ulster, Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess and Rockland counties, enjoyed a fine clambake at the Dashville Falls grove Wednesday.

Following the bake a meeting was held at which the various changes in the conservation law were explained and discussed and instruction given.

In addition to Inspector Frederick G. DeWitt, in charge of the Kingston office, and Miss Elizabeth Covert, stenographer, the following protectors were present: Ulster, Bert N. Castle, Edward P. Nolan, Lewis H. Weed; Orange, V. J. Kohl; Sullivan, George N. Hembot, Marcus Hinkley, Roy Steenrod; Dutchess, A. H. Arnold, Irving S. Lindsley; Rockland, Everett J. Knapp. Protector Daniel R. Bacon of Orange was unable to be present on account of illness.

New Pastor at Emanuel Baptist

The Rev. L. A. Weaver

The Rev. L. A. Weaver, A. B., B. Th., has been called to the pastorate of the Emanuel Baptist Church, 150 East Union street, and today stated he comes to Kingston not only to serve Emanuel Baptist Church but the entire community both in religious, civic and social life.

The Rev. Mr. Weaver was born in Texas, educated in the public schools of his native state, and entered Paul Quinn College, later graduating from Prairie View State College. Feeling a call to the ministry, he studied theology, finishing his course in 1913.

Besides his work in the ministry, the Rev. Mr. Weaver has had experience as a teacher, he having taught in public schools, serving some of the time as principal of a high school. At one time he was director of religious education for the General Baptist State Convention of Illinois, while acting as a pastor in Chicago.

Coming to the East the Rev. Mr. Weaver had charges of churches in Niagara Falls and Hudson.

In calling the Rev. Mr. Weaver to Kingston, officials of the Emanuel Baptist Church said: "We heartily commend the Rev. Mr. Weaver to the good graces of our many friends both white and colored, as we thus hopefully go forth on our mission of good and service for our Risen Lord."

ENDURANCE CONTESTS.

The strange love of the American public for endurance contests, especially such inane and sickening exhibitions as dance marathons or "walkathons", is explained strikingly by Meridel le Sueur in the New Republic. Why prefer this deadly exhibition to something really dramatic? He finds the answer in our national state of mind as follows:

Could any nationality except the American sit hour after hour, day after day, watching sick and weary people mill round and round, watching the symbolic dramatization of their own torture of boredom? A bull fight, with all its excitement in the drawing of blood, would be no enjoyment for this audience. But they know the nightmare they are watching in all its aspects; they know the suffering of boredom and inertia; they see nothing foreign in the absurdity of a walking individual, dead asleep, being watched by ten thousand people and not knowing it. Inanity dramatized to to this level is almost art, and the spectacle is classic in its way, an epic of fatigue and boredom.

As the spectators stroll through the halls, milling past each other and staring at each other sightlessly, you see the same gestures and the same glazed expressions of fatigue and indifference that you see under the glaring lights of the arena. Their curious listless wandering is only a shade more animated than that of the walkers in their tortured sleep.

Fortunately we are getting away from this sort of thing. Work, purpose, new faith in something worth while for self, family, city and humanity—these are remedies for the boredom that has found relief in walkathons—and in bridge, solitaire, jigsaw puzzles and a hundred other time-killers. We may yet stop killing time and use it in happy activity.

A DOOMED PRESIDENT.

President Machado of Cuba, fighting for his job with his back to the wall, appeared a more heroic figure than the same man in his days of ruthless power. His courage won admiration even from his enemies. But not his judgment. He was doomed by the enemies he had made, the cruelties he had inflicted, the recklessness with which he had squandered his country's wealth and substituted tyranny for constitutional government.

He should have learned before this, from the example of the Mexican Diaz and many a lesser dictator, that one-man government cannot endure in this hemisphere. Spanish-Americans will not tolerate it, in the long run, much more than Anglo-Americans. Even the European examples of Stalin, Mussolini and Hitler, in a new and difficult period which calls for highly centralized government, could not save Machado. The rebellion against his high-handed administration, growing for years, had been approaching a climax.

Machado, fulminating against the United States, sought to rouse the spirit of Cubans and other branches of the Latin-American race against us, but even that effort could not avail to keep him in power. If he lives, he will soon join other exiles of his race living abroad on the spoils of their administration.

COURAGE AND LUCK

We can always understand ourselves better with the aid of outside opinion. Here is an interesting comment from a Canadian newspaper, the Toronto Star, on the present national situation. Disclaiming any ability to forecast the outcome of our big experiment, and remarking that it will be time to imitate our government policies "when their success is manifest," the Star says:

At present the admirable thing about President Roosevelt is the courage with which he attacks a situation almost impossible of handling, and the fine ardor with which he goes on and through with the big tasks he selects for himself. It is fortunate that he possesses the personality to win the aid of men of every class and kind in the plans he has adopted, for ordinarily Washington and the whole republic would be in clamorous argument about each different feature of everything he sets out to do. The seriousness of the time does something to explain the unanimity of opinion and the quiet waiting for results shown by the people of the United States. But no doubt a confidence in the daring of the President and in the good luck of the republic has much to do with it.

Here we have the heart of it. Confidence in courage, not only in the head of the government but in the able men and women of all parties and classes who are cooperating with him; and also a deep, newly revived confidence in the luck of the United States of America.

"It may be doubtful whether we can do business according to the Golden Rule; but it's still more doubtful whether we can keep doing business without it," says an Ohio newspaper. Just so. Which reminds one of that saying of one of the most famous of the Fabian Socialists when someone asked him about the "failure" of Christianity. "Christianity has not failed; it has never yet been tried." Nor, when one gets right down to it, have the precepts of any of the other great religious teachers ever been put into common practice. The average man has repeated to himself too often that other line of scripture—"Such matters are too high for me."

LIVER AND MENTAL AILMENTS

Some years ago the superintendent of a large mental hospital discovered that a patient who had been an inmate for two years (with no sign of any change) began to improve shortly after some bad teeth were removed, and left the hospital perfectly well mentally two months later.

Immediately dentists were brought in and the removal of dead and infected teeth gave such satisfactory results that this institution attained the best record on the continent for the percentage of cures in proportion to the number of cases entering the hospital.

As the underlying cause of a number of mental cases was thus shown to be due to poison in the system, nose and throat specialists were brought in who removed infected tonsils and corrected other conditions in the nose and throat, resulting in the cure of a considerable number of cases.

This superintendent went further in his efforts to remove poison from the system, by requiring the attendants to see that patients had intestinal movements daily and in some cases ordered ordinary enemas and in other cases high enemas, or colonic irrigations as they are called.

A point, not fully recognized by most of us, is that one of the important jobs done by the liver is that of removing poisons from the blood. If the liver fails to do this work properly then there is that tired lazy feeling that is caused by any poisonous waste. Thus we speak of a lazy liver as an organ that makes us "quitters."

Dr. A. Lingjaerde, Oslo, found that disturbances of the liver were very frequent in a common type of mental ailment, and that it was due to a large extent to too much waste in the large bowel. The liver simply could not take care of this large amount of poison.

As you know the liver tries to prevent constipation by manufacturing bile and sending it down the intestine. If this bile flows freely and sends wastes out of the bowel, then naturally there will not be as much waste (poison) in the blood for the liver to remove.

If we would keep the liver active by bending exercises, forward or to the side, with knees straight, many of us would have clearer minds.

The HIDDEN DOOR

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Colin Hewes has borrowed Germaine Tremblay's boat for a dangerous expedition to warn Joe Lazarre and his criminal "pals" at a so-called "club" on the St. Lawrence that a man named Dollaire plans to hijack the club in a few hours. Germaine hides in the boat; when she is discovered she confesses her reason for stowing away was love for Colin. Colin hopes to track down the Hawk, New York killer, with the help of a mysterious letter she is to give Lazarre. But he does not know which one is Lazarre.

Chapter 23

THE AMBUSH

"COLIN—be careful!" Germaine called after him.

"Right!" he called back reassuringly. "I've got to be too careful. That's the whole trouble. Don't worry."

The bank was steep, and at the top thinly wooded. He clambered up and began to make his way along toward the club. At times, through the trees, he could catch the glimmer of the club's lights, and at other moments they were lost to him; but the river was guide enough.

His mind was probing again. What plan was he to pursue? To go straight to the club, meet them as a group of gentlemen and sportsmen, and tell them that he had overheard a plot to raid the club tonight, seemed the most logical and sensible course to adopt. He would meet them all. He would naturally be introduced to Lazarre.

And suppose, to test him, they did ask him why, under such circumstances, he had not brought help with him from Cap à l'Orage? Well, he was a stranger there himself, wasn't he? He had not known whom to go to for help, and, besides, there had not been too much time to spare. So he had come himself as quickly as he could.

Undoubtedly that was the best thing to do. It guaranteed Lazarre against any possible suspicion of having any connection with him, Colin; and it promised, almost certainly, an opportunity of getting Lazarre aside for a few words in private.

He was close to the club now. The distance had not been great—some six or seven hundred yards, he judged. And now he halted suddenly.

He had come out on a broad path that led up from the water's edge, and, looking down the path, he could see, outlined in the moonlight, a large boat moored alongside a wharf. One of the club's big power boats, of course. Looking the other way, he could see that, a few yards from where he stood, the path swerved sharply in the direction of the club.

He went on again, and, as he made the turn in the path, thanks both to the moonlight and the club's window lights which now shone out unobscured, he was at once able to chart his surroundings quite easily. Perhaps ten yards ahead of him the path debouched on a clearing, and across the clearing a short distance away, the clubhouse, facing him, was now in full view.

And through the trees, thinning as he neared the end of the path, he could see to his left a single window light and the shadowy outline of the power house that Bouchard had talked about. He would like very much to find out what that power house concealed. Well, perhaps he would, even though he wasn't staying for the show! If Lazarre—

HE was just at the edge of the clearing now, and for the second time since he had left the launch he came to a sudden halt. It was imagination, no doubt, for the roar of the falls, louder now than ever, would drown out all ordinary sounds; but it seemed as though he had heard something stirring close at hand.

He turned, stared back along the path, and suddenly leaped to one side—too late. Two forms which seemed to have risen from the earth at his feet hurled themselves upon him, flinging him to the ground before he had a chance to defend himself. These were "members" of the club, of course, on guard out here against another incursion by the spy of the other night—and he was being mistaken for the spy.

"Look here! he protested. "I—"

A French oath answered him. Something crashed upon his head—then darkness.

Colin came to his senses conscious that something was being thrust roughly into his mouth, conscious of a voice speaking in French—but only vaguely conscious of the meaning of the words:

"Bah! And so you have no cord, eh? Well, you see! His handkerchief for his mouth, and his necktie to hold it there. Tight! Tie it around the back of his head—tight. And now his arms—behind him and around that little tree. Lash his wrists together. Here's his belt."

Colin felt his arms wrenched violently around behind his back, and instinctively, though his strength seemed to have been drained out of him, he made an effort to resist—only to be pushed savagely back on the ground again.

"Hah!" ejaculated the same voice. "His head is harder than I thought. His little nap did not last long. He will not make any noise now to spoil Dollaire's plans—and he is well anchored so that he cannot run away to his friends over there. And, besides, we will be here until it would be too late for him to do anything anyway."

Colin's brain was clearing. He felt his strength returning—but he lay without movement now, listening. Something had been said about Dollaire, hadn't it? Two men, he could see, were crouched on the ground close beside him. They had spoken in French, and it would seem from what they said that they were Dollaire's men! But here now? Impossible! His brain, still sick, was playing tricks upon him.

"A knife would have been better," came the snarling response. "That wouldn't have made any noise either."

"WELL, use it now, if you want to," returned the first speaker shortly. "For me, I don't care. But you will have plenty of killing to do, my good pig-sticker, before the night is over, and since this one here can't fight against us now, for me he doesn't count any more."

"Thanks!" growled the other sarcastically. "But I don't care, me, either." He thrust himself forward toward Colin. "You hear?" he flung out. "You are in luck."

Gagged, Colin could not have answered if he would. He had closed his eyes, striving desperately to make sense of what had been said about Dollaire, and he gave no indication of being aware that he had been addressed.

"Try your English on him, Baptiste," laughed the other man. "The apaches from New York don't speak French."

Baptiste ignored the sally.

"For the love of God," he grumbled impatiently. "We are all here long ago! What is Dollaire waiting for? He's had time enough, hasn't he?"

"For me, I would say no — because he is still waiting," came the dry reply. "Listen! Dollaire is no fool. He has the cunning of a fox, that boy! What does he do tonight when he finds out from that fellow Bouchard that there is a short way over the hills and through the woods? He comes that way—there is then no risk of the schooner being seen by any of them out there in the moonlight. And, besides, we save all that time."

Baptiste answered with a grunt—and the two lapsed into silence.

Colin's head throbbed as though a thousand devils were pounding hammer blows upon it, and as they pounded they seemed to mock and jeer at him in unholy mirth. Despite the pain, his mind was lucid now, functioning normally again. All this for nothing! He was too late. Dollaire and his men were already here. The start that he had counted on, the time enough and to spare, had simply not existed.

To go overland, if one could, Germaine had said, would cut the time in half. He had thought of going that way himself but it had never entered his head that Dollaire would land his men at Cap à l'Orage. It had taken approximately two hours to make the trip in the launch. It was Dollaire who had reached here first with time to spare.

Colin's mind was working in little flashes now as though it were tossing before him parts of a picture puzzle to be pieced together. Larocque and Bolduc, taking Bouchard with them, he remembered, were to have left the shack to keep their rendezvous with Dollaire shortly after he had started back for the village, so Bouchard, of course, had been on hand to act as guide.

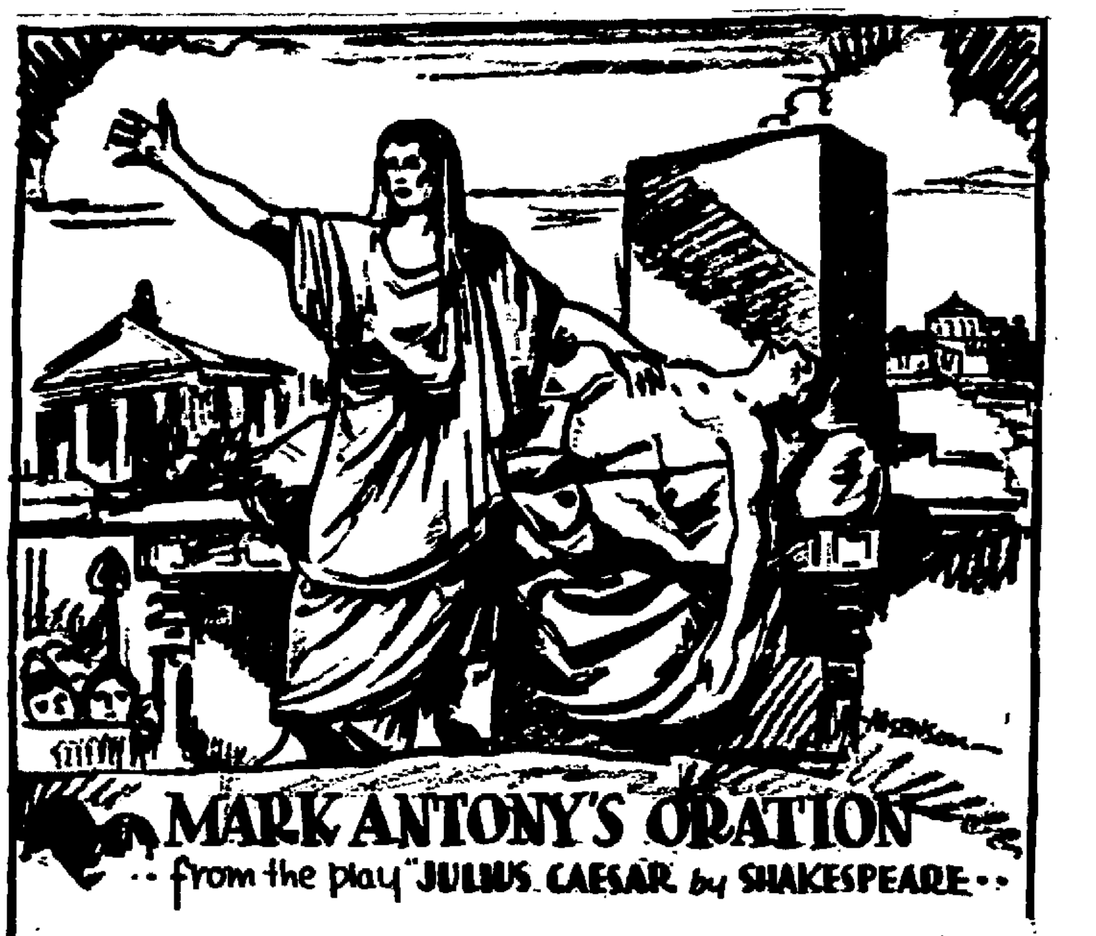

Bouchard would not have led them through the village. . . . No one at Cap à l'Orage would know anything about it. . . . The loot of the club could be neither bulky nor heavy if Dollaire was prepared to bring it back overland and . . .

STROKES OF GENIUS

by SAMUEL NISENSON & ALFRED PARKER

VERY little is known about William Shakespeare's life, but the priceless heritage of poetry that he has left us is sound reason for his reputation as the greatest poet and playwright of the English language. Of his 38 plays, "Julius Caesar" was written between 1599 and 1600 and was produced by an acting company the same season. It is based upon the work of the Roman historian Plutarch.

The story centers about the assassination of Julius Caesar by the conspirators Cassius, Casca, and Caesar's friend, Brutus, because they feared his ambition to become king. In the third act, after Caesar's death, Mark Antony, his close friend, delivers the stirring funeral oration and thus arouses the people's fury to the point where they drive Brutus and his companions into exile.

Although the entire play is filled with expressions that are now accepted as part of the English language, a particularly moving piece of poetry is the oration, with its impressive opening lines:

"Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears;
I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him."

Ulster Fruit Growers Study Conditions and A Code for Marketing

State Commission Making Study of Conditions Surrounding Growing and Marketing of Perishable Fruit—Want Better Prices.

Nearly 100 of the prominent fruit growers of the Hudson Valley region assembled at Kingston on Monday last at a public hearing conducted by the New York State Perishable Fruit Commission. This commission is making an intensive study of the conditions surrounding the growing and marketing of perishable fruits produced in New York state, in order to bring about more favorable marketing conditions for such fruit and better prices to the grower.

The membership of the Commission is: Senator John T. McCall of New York city, chairman, Assemblyman Howard N. Allen, Pawling, vice chairman, Senator Ogden J. Ross, Troy, Assemblyman Fayette E. Pease, Lockport, Walter R. Clark, Milton, and E. G. Cowper, Newfane.

Amos H. Weed of Highland, Patrick J. F. Gallagher of Marlborough, Walter Margraf of Clintondale and George Hildebrand of Milton, leading packers of red currants in the Hudson Valley signified their willingness to institute the formation of an association to adopt a code for the production and sale of the product under the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act. It is claimed that 80 per cent of the red currants in the United States are grown in the Hudson Valley.

In order to stimulate discussion the Commission had prepared stated questions to be asked those who testified at the hearing. The questions asked were:

Are you in favor of excluding from New York State markets, fruit that is premature, or over-ripe?

Should this restriction be applied to sales within New York state?

Would you favor regulations prohibiting the sale, in New York state, of fruit from other states of a lower grade than U. S. Utility?

Do you favor marking open crates of apples and pears to show the size, grade and packer's name (if orchard run to be so stated)?

The establishment of a higher grade under state brand for all fruits has been suggested—the use of which would not be compulsory, but to be used by growers under a license; license fee to be reasonable and proceeds from said fees to be used for the advertising of this state brand; license to be revoked if grower or packer fails to comply with requirements of the state grade. What is your opinion of this suggestion?

Should there be a regulation requiring the retailer to display name of variety, grade and size of all apples offered for sale to the consumer?

Would you favor prohibiting the use of second-hand fruit packages, unless properly sterilized, to prevent the further spread of fruit pests and diseases?

A group of questions regarding the feasibility and practicability of establishing a regional market at Newburgh brought out a general discussion, but the general consensus of opinion was that this question should not be discussed until the special committee making a survey of the project has had time to report. All agreed that such a market, if erected, should be self sustaining.

Another question asked was: "Would the construction of a modern wholesale market on the lower East Side of New York city to supplant the present antiquated Washington street market be beneficial to New York state fruit growers?. After discussion it was agreed that this is more properly a New York city problem.

The commission also asked the question: "Should farm supplies, including fertilizer and fruit packages be exempted from the New York sales tax?" This would be exceedingly popular with the farmer if it could be done, as he has no way of passing this cost along to the consumer.

It seemed to be the opinion of the majority of those who spoke that premature fruit of this and other states should be excluded from the market.

There was practically unanimous endorsement to the idea of the establishment of a state brand and the advertising of that brand through a state agency.

The proposal for a regulation requiring the retailer to display name of variety, grade, and size of all apples offered for sale to the consumer brought out a number of valuable suggestions. One speaker declared that the public should be educated to order fruit by variety, while several were of opinion that the retailer should be penalized for misrepresenting brands of fruit.

Some very interesting comments were made in answer to the question:

What are your personal opinions as to what can be done by the state of New York to make fruit growing more profitable?

One of the witnesses thought the grade of apples should be raised slightly, that a minimum quality should be decided upon and no apples of a lower grade should be sold. Another witness stated that anything that will reduce the spread between the producer and consumer would be beneficial, while a third witness suggested the enactment of a fair practice act where there would be a penalty for forcing down the market by selling below cost. Still other witnesses favored an intensive advertising campaign by the state.

Two prominent grape growers in the Hudson valley district were present. One of these said the present grape grading law benefited him, while the other said it did and did not. One favored making the law optional instead of mandatory. Both agreed if a way could be found to control distribution it would be a good thing for the growers.

Those who gave testimony or spoke at the hearing were:

Lawrence Howard of Kinderhook, E. Stuart Hubbard, R. F. D. 2, Poughkeepsie, Thomas E. Cross, La Grangeville, E. D. Bacher, Rock Tavern, Henry J. Mills, Kinderhook, Wessil Ten Broeck, Hudson, H. H. Brown Monsey, A. D. Lewis, Red Hook, Leslie Herring, Ulster Park, Melford Hurd, Clintondale, C. J. Hepworth, Milton, R. B. Kohl, Newburgh, J. W. Clark, Milton, C. C. DuMond, Ulster Park, Paul Judson, Kinderhook, B. D. Van Buren, Valatie, Alfred T. Ogden, Kinderhook, William Y. Velie, Newburgh, A. David Davies, Congers.

Senator John T. McCall, chairman of the commission, today announced that the next public meeting of the commission will be held in the Chautauqua fruit belt at a time and place to be later announced.

DUTCH COMMUNIST FACES TRIAL FOR REICHSTAG FIRE

Berlin (AP).—Germany's interest is beginning to center on mid-September when the Dutch communist, Marinus van der Lubbe, will be sent to trial at Leipzig charged with setting fire to the Reichstag building February 27, a week before the elections which put Hitler in power.

Along with van der Lubbe, the government says, a number of German communists also will be tried. Although the names have not been announced officially, it is expected that Ernst Torgler, communist whip in the Reichstag, will be among the defendants.

Van der Lubbe, a chunky, beetle browed man, was found, officials charge, in the Reichstag building the night of the fire. He was bare to the waist and the government charges he was firing the building.

Examinations indicated the building had been fired in 14 places.

Torgler's connection with the case, so far as it has been publicly announced, rests on the fact that he left the building about 20 minutes before the fires broke out.

There are three generals, all ex-cabinet ministers, on the retired list.

Absence of active generals is ascribed to reorganization of the army and to economy motives.

A Retort Courteous To Payne's Remark

The article in Wednesday evening's Freeman relative to Judge Clearwater's request to the board of assessors of the town of Esopus that the assessment of the celebrated property of Colonel Payne, usually spoken of as the English Village, and assessed at $273,646 be stricken from the assessment roll upon the ground that as it had been presented to and now was owned and used by the great City Mission of the Episcopal Church of which Bishop Manning is the head, that it was exempt from taxation, recalls to the memory of an old Freeman man an incident which at the time attracted a good deal of attention in theatrical circles.

Colonel Payne was a munificent patron of art, letters and the drama.

The superb ballroom of his palatial residence at Esopus—now used as a chapel by the boys of the mission— was the scene of many historic receptions.

At one of these, Henry Irving and Ellen Terry were honored guests. The colonel in presenting Judge Clearwater to them, said "Judge Clearwater is my Fides Achates here in the country."

"Payne and Clearwater!" said Miss Terry, "what a beautiful antithetical combination. Permit me, however, to remind you of the admonition of Beatrice in "Much Ado About Nothing".

"Friendship is constant in all other things

Save in the office and affairs of love: Therefore all hearts in love use their own tongues;

Let every eye negotiate for itself And trust no agent."

This bon mot of Miss Terry was said by Irving as one of those incidents that demonstrate not only Miss Terry's complete knowledge of Shakespeare, but her phenomenal ability to adapt that knowledge to the most unexpected incidents of daily life.

He frequently spoke of it at the Century and Players Clubs.

Old Athens, Modern Singing and Dancing Entertained Kiwanis

Dr. Edward Fitch of Hamilton College, Noted Greek Scholar, Presented Remarks on Recent Trip to Ancient City—Elverhoj Cast Entertained.

A description of his recent trip to Athens, Greece, by Dr. Edward Fitch of Hamilton College, one of the outstanding Greek scholars in the country, and a varied program of singing, dancing and remarks by three members of the University Players company, of the Elverhoj Colony near Milton, featured the Thursday noon program of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Judge Bernard Culloton, "general" of the NRA drive in this city, introduced John Swope of Washington, D. C., who brought news of the latest developments of the recovery act, and suggested a number of things, which it was expected will aid in making the project more successful locally.

It was announced that plans were about complete for a "Ladies' Night," for August 31.

Paul Zucca, in charge of special entertainment, then introduced Miss H. Grace Baer, whose first number was a song and buck dance, which was very clever. She was accompanied by K. L. Holderman, who sang when Miss Baer danced the second part of the number.

Miss Lucette Parker entertained with a vocal solo, "Alice Blue Gown," sung delightfully, and during the second chorus members of the club accompanied her, whistling the number. Miss Parker's father is a Kiwanian, which made her the more appreciated by the audience.

An explanation of the summer stock company, "The University Players," was given briefly by Miss Frances Armstrong, who described the desire of the company to furnish its audiences with the kind of entertainment they desired. She explained that all of the actors in the company were college graduates, or were at present in college. A survey, she said, had shown that Ulster county people desired to see comedy, and that all the plays done so far were forms of comedy, each play a leader in the type of comedy attempted. This week, she said, the company was playing "A Pair of Sixes," which was extremely funny. Miss Armstrong closed by inviting all of the Kingstonians to attend one of the company's performances that they might see the kind of work done, and meet the members of the cast.

The concluding number by the Elverhoj group was given by Miss Baer, who did a soft-shoe dance, which again proved to be enjoyable.

Pearl Carey, as chairman of the program committee, presented Dr. William Cranston, who in turn presented Dr. Fitch.

The speaker opened his remarks by stating that Athens was one of the seats of ancient culture, and that students were now going there to study this old culture in the atmosphere in which it had been created.

He explained that in 1910 the population of Athens was less than 150,000 persons, and that at the present time the city had grown to 750,000 inhabitants, "sounds more like the description of an American city," he said, "than one of the ancient world."

Dr. Fitch told that this growth had been due in a large part to the oppression of the Turks in Asia Minor, who had driven the Greeks into the sea, and eventually toward Athens, where many of them settled.

He then spoke briefly of the Near East Foundation, the establishing of American hospitals, schools, and the education of the people along modern lines in public health. He also said that an intensive campaign had been begun to prevent cruelty to animals, which he explained was quite a project because the Greeks did not have the same idea of animals that people in the western world held.

He explained depreciation in Greek money had required the government to prevent anyone from entering the country and then leaving with more money than when he entered.

He concluded his address with remarks concerning the natural beauties of the country, and compared them with America, saying, "I think I would be satisfied to live there." Especially interesting was his description of the trip to the Oracle of Delphi.

Guests present at the meeting were the Rev. C. D. Osse of New York city, Ray Huling of Kingston, Andrew J. O'Connor of Glens Falls, M. A. Strawbridge of New York city, and Mr. Colburn of Elyria, Ohio.

How "PEPLESS" Mrs. Moffet Was Led to Try a FAST Soap that's EASY on Clothes

NOW CHANGE ALL YOUR FORMER IDEAS OF FAST WASHING AND WHITE CLOTHES

With This Amazing New Soap Discovery

Accept 5 Easy Washdays FREE... NOTE COUPON BELOW

THANKS to the world's most famous soap makers, women everywhere are asking and exclaiming "Will the wonders of science never cease?"

For women believed that everything science could do to make washdays easier and clothes whiter had been done for them. And then found they were wrong.

They believed they had the fastest way already. And then found their present favorite was slow, compared to this new invention.

They believed they already had the whitest washes they could get. And then were amazed by still whiter washes.

So—millions now are quitting old-time soaps, bars and flakes, old-type "granulated soaps" for an utterly new and different kind of soap.

A Remarkable, NEW Invention

This new and improved soap invention is called OXYDOL. And it does these things. Things no other soap can do, or has ever done:

It cuts washing time 25% to 40%. And thus saves hours of labor.

It works without scrubbing, without rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt.

It makes clothes 50% whiter than old ways. Yet it can not fade or injure either fabric or color.

It is as kind to the hands as the finest toilet soap. For it is created by America's largest soap makers —the makers of gentle "Ivory."

Do you wonder then that women by the thousands are daily turning to it?

How It Works

This remarkable invention works an entirely different way.

For one thing, it is especially fitted to the water in each district it is sold. Old-time soaps are not.

The water in this district for instance has been tested for hardness by famous chemists. And the new, improved OXYDOL you get here is made to fit it. This gives you suds like rich dairy cream that's whipped.

It contains special, mild elements that soak out dirt—dissolve it—take it out like magic. And these elements are blended with special ingredients to protect colors against fading.

It will change all ideas you have ever had about washing. About whiter washes. About easier washdays.

These things we promise you. For your own sake, try it. Don't believe your present favorite is still the finest. Try this new invention. Accept package FREE for coupon. Or obtain at any store. JJ-45

The bigger the social event, the smaller the sandwiches, observes the critical observer.

Hearer—You say you guarantee this gun; suppose it bursts and blows my head off?

Dealer—In that case we'll give you a new gun.

She now wants a piano! A well-known local girl who received a large portrait of her best boy friend, and has no place to show his mug off.

Gal—Why are so many men going to the Hawaiian Islands this summer?

Joe—I don't know! The grass crop was a total failure there.

A man of the world is one who can show a modern girl a good time without spending any money on her.

Jane (the maid, tapping timidly on the professor's door)—Man in the hall wishes to speak to you, Professor.

Professor (looking up from his book)—Tell him I'm out, Jane.

Jane—I did, sir. But he won't go.

Professor—What? Send him in to me and I'll tell him myself.

There's only one answer when a 19-year old boy comes home and actually asks for money to get a haircut. But at that point, candor pauses; sometimes it takes another week to find out the girl's name.

Banker—What is your ambition, Junior?

Junior—I ain't got any. I just want to be a vice-president.

As our adventures fade into the past we clothe them with garments of mystery, danger and royal splendor.

Grace—Alvin offered me his heart last night. I put him off till tomorrow.

Merle — Don't accept damaged goods. Last week he told me it was broken when I refused him.

"The man who eats little and works much," says a local doctor, "might outlast the one who worked little and ate much."

Jester—Doesn't this high flying get on your nerves?

Aviator—Well, it makes me soar every time I leave the hangar.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce has certainly been the wife of the party.

Maid—I left my last place because I was told to do something I didn't like to do.

Prospective Mistress—Indeed, and what was that?

Maid—To look for another job.

The man who is always in hard luck is usually the one who is always looking for a soft job.

Young Husband—My wife is cooking dinner for the first time today. Will you come along and share it?

Friend—Certainly. I have always shared your sorrows.

A noted baby doctor claims that he can cure any case of measles in three days. Care, Doctor, those are rash promises.

When a certain business man came home the other evening he found his young wife in tears.

Bride (sobbing)—I've been insulted. Your mother insulted me.

Hubby—My mother? But precious, she is miles away.

Bride—I know it, but a letter came for you today and I opened it.

Hubby—I see, but darling, where does the insult come in?

Bride—In the postscript. It said: "Dear Alice: Don't forget to give this letter to George."

We interviewed seventeen women today, and each one of the sixteen of them insisted she works harder at home than her husband works in town.

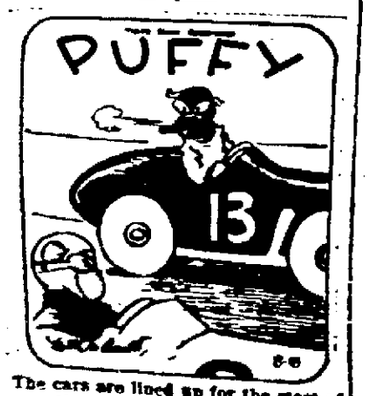

Doctor—Congratulations, old man, your wife has presented you with quadruplets.

Father—Four crying out loud!!!

The Gregorian Calendar

The Gregorian calendar was adopted by England and her colonies in 1752. Dates about that time were reckoned in two ways—"Old Style" and "New Style." Thus Washington's birthday used to be given for two different dates. The Gregorian calendar was not adopted by Japan until 1873, by the Chinese in 1912, by Turkey in 1917, by the Russians in 1918, by Rumania in 1919 and by Greece and Greek church in 1923.

The cars are lined up for the start of the race.
Our lads have maneuvered their auto in place.
The racer that's next them is painted all black.
And driven by Gasso, the scourge of the track.

GAS BUGGIES—Friend.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON — As Uncle Sam mobilizes his forces for a nation-wide war on crime, pledged to fight to the end to rid the country of kidnapers and racketeers, a youthful and enthusiastic man at the department of justice is getting ready for battle.

JOHN EDGAR HOOVER

He is J. Edgar Hoover, director of the newly created division of investigation.

Hoover's name does not figure as prominently perhaps in the news of this great drive the government is planning as do some of the others.

Moves of Professor Raymond Moley, President Roosevelt's special investigator, are noted. Attorney General Cummings' utterances on the subject are made known.

But it is upon the shoulders of Hoover that much of the responsibility for dealing with the criminal element rests. He and his division will be, so to speak, the executive officers of the high command.

* * *

The Law's 'Punch'

THE others will do the planning. Hoover represents the strong arm of the law.

"Crime," says the young director, "cannot be fought effectively until we know the extent, nature and geographical concentration of it. The best way to diagnose it is to collect statistics on it."

As the result of his expanding fact-finding information on crime his organization has succeeded in amassing the largest fingerprint file of criminals in the world—3,500,000 sets. More than 6,000 agencies here and abroad have and are contributing to this collection of statistics.

* * *

Setting A High Score

LAST year his agents set a record of 95.51 per cent convictions in cases where they secured federal indictments.

Of the 17 kidnaping and extortion cases the federal officers have investigated since the Lindbergh case there were 15 in which the perpetrators were caught. There have been convictions in 12 of the cases and three trials are pending.

The various agencies of his division are prepared to cooperate to the fullest in the war on crime which the President has declared.

* * *

An Anti-Crime School

HOOVER has developed the division of identification which includes the national crime laboratory, the crime statistics collection service and the officers' training school.

His men are all trained. Four years ago when he began the officers' training school, not only were the new officers put through six weeks of training in the most recent scientific methods of detection, but he called in all the old ones in the service and required them to study.

Hiram Van Wart of Salem street started Thursday morning in an extended trip through Canada.

Hope Lodge, No. 65, K. of P., will hold its regular meeting this evening.

The Port Ewen Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps will meet at the West Shore bus terminal at 7 o'clock Saturday evening to escort the National Guard from the new armory to the West Shore Railroad station from where they will start for camp.

Miss Anna E. Short of Cottekill was a Wednesday guest of her brother, A. H. Short, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McKenzie and family have moved to Sleightsburgh.

Sweden's Trade Improves.

Stockholm (AP).—Sweden's foreign trade for the first half of 1933 showed an improvement of $16,500,000 in comparison with the same period last year. The export increase was especially prominent in wood pulp, timber and pig iron.

The Storm

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"We're in for a terrible storm," exclaimed Willy Nilly. "You'd better all stay here."

"I must go back to my shed and General Store," said Top Notch, the Rooster. "I've a number of things to do there, and I can make it before the rain begins."

"I don't like to have you go out in such a storm," said Willy Nilly nervously. "But if it starts to rain, get wet rather than take shelter under a tree. You know a tree attracts lightning and you might be struck."

"I'll be perfectly safe," said Top Notch, as he hurried off. In a few minutes it started to pour, and Top Notch had hardly gone any distance. Then came a crash that made Willy Nilly rush to his front window in fear.

"Oh, oh, oh," he said brokenly, "I knew that something had been struck just then. Oh dear, oh dear, I should never have let him go. He hated to get wet and he probably thought my advice was foolish. I shouldn't have let him go." Willy Nilly repeated, as tears streamed from his eyes.

"What's the matter?" the others shouted, as they rushed to the window to look.

Willy Nilly pointed to a crumpled looking heap under a tree.

"I'm afraid he has been struck by lightning," quacked Mrs. Quacko Duck to Mr. Quacko. Rip nodded. Willy Nilly was sobbing, but out into the rain they ran. There was Top Notch, lying on his back under the tree with his feet in the air. He did not move.

The Too-Calm Family

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The purpose of family life should be to accustom the child by slow degrees to living in the world. For that reason it seems a mistake to insist on making the home an unnatural paradise where no sharp word must ever be spoken, no friction ever allowed.

There are a few mothers who are all softness and gentleness and never have the inclination to be cross. But for one of these there are 10 of the less evenly-balanced whose nerves become frayed and worn and who are at times unreasonable and irritable.

It is possible, of course, to control one's temper and keep it within limits, but to place on it an iron restraint which is never let down, produces an unnatural calm which has an effect, not only on the children, but on the entire household.

We have all seen the mother who, no matter how fractious and exasperating the child is, still speaks to him in a low and restrained voice.

The child further exasperated by his inability to make any impression on the stoic quiet of his mother, grows increasingly violent until finally he must be put to bed or gently deposited in the other room. The only signs of agitation on the mother's part are a tightening of the lips and a sense of taut nerves.

Both mother and child suffer from a constant repetition of this kind of thing. The child has a feeling of impotence against an almost inhuman force, the mother a nerve exhaustion from repressed emotion. Both would gain by an occasional letting off of steam, and would experience a warmer and more human relationship towards each other.

The rough as well as the smooth contacts of life may be learned in the home, and it may be unwise to go to extremes in order to eliminate them.

Grocery Chain Woos Voters

Peru Buys Estonian Warships.

Tallinn, Estonia (AP).—Two Estonian warships, the Lennuk and the Wambola, have been sold to Peru for 2,500,000 kronen, about $410,000. The money will go into the construction fund for two submarines and several torpedo boats.

Plan Annual Outing For Orphanage Aug. 24

On Thursday, August 24, the annual outing for the children and sisters of the Sacred Heart Orphanage at West Park will be held under the auspices of the Fourth Degree Assembly, Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus. Plans will include an auto ride around this vicinity to be followed by an outing and luncheon at Kingston Point Park.

About 50 autos will be needed to convey the children and sisters to and from the orphanage, and donors of cars are requested to get in touch with either E. Frank Flanagan, William O'Reilly, or J. David Schenck.

This annual event is always looked forward to with the greatest of pleasure by the children of the Sacred Heart Orphanage each year, and it is hoped that there will be a hearty response in the donation of the use of autos this year.

Members of the Catholic Daughters of America will assist the Knights of Columbus in taking care of the large group of children during the luncheon to be served at Kingston Point Park.

Assembly to Vote On Tax Measure

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—As New York city's tax measure came before the Republican-controlled Assembly today after passing the Senate by a strict Democratic vote, Gov. [illegible] Lehman expressed disappointment [illegible] upstate cities had taken advantage of the special session [illegible] for legislation permitting economies.

[illegible] single municipality of the state outside of New York city has requested the introduction of legislation looking toward better administration or economies," the Governor said. "Their failure to do so has been a great disappointment to me and I believe it has been to the people of the state generally."

The New York city tax bill, which gives the Tammany Hall administration blanket authority to levy new city taxes for unemployment relief between September 1 and next March 1, was approved by a vote of 25 to 25 in the Senate after a bitter fight.

Seeking Price Rise Minus Fluctuations

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt, urged repeatedly these days to inflate the currency directly, is aiming right seeking to bring prices up steadily and without fluctuations.

Yesterday, Senator Smith of South Carolina and Representative Jones of Texas, chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, urged him to issue non-interest bearing treasury notes to meet government obligations.

Smith reported this reaction:

"He made me feel powerful good by the way he smiled."

There came from the White House no indication of a change in Mr. Roosevelt's belief that the situation now is well under control.

It has been pointed out at the White House that a slow upward price movement is considered of real business health, [illegible] it was said that prices which had risen too high and too fast had dropped most recently. This [illegible] was reported [illegible].

Lack of Water Adds to Distress.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. [illegible]—Lack of water and other supplies formed a distressing aftermath today of a storm which [illegible] caused 35 deaths and widespread property damage. It's War—And The Women 'Generals' Rally

Depression's Their Foe—Their Emblem's The NRA Banner

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington, (AP)—Women "generals" are collecting here for the battle against the depression, coming from drawing rooms, factory workshops and political camps.

Their backgrounds are as varied as a cross-section of the nation's life could afford. But in recent years they have stood individually, in their various communities, for the principles now being written into the nation's life.

There is Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, daughter and heiress of E. J. Harriman, the railroad magnate. She heads the Consumers' Advisory Board, which represents the buying public at all code hearings to make sure that prices do not take an "undue rise."

"We must help the consumer and wage-earner see that he or she is generally one and the same person," she says.

One of her aids is Emily Newell Blair, the writer and one-time vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Mrs. Blair, since the days she entered the fight for the women's suffrage amendment, has been a faithful party worker.

But she has been more. She has been most insistent that women receiving political appointment be rewarded for professional ability rather than for mere vote-getting power.

Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey (left), head of the Consumers' Advisory Board, confers with Mrs. Hugh S. Johnson, wife of the NRA administrator on the complaint division. They are two of the women "generals" battling the depression.

Another aid in the consumers' board office is Mrs. Hugh S. Johnson, wife of the administrator. She will handle the complaint division. Like the rest of the board, she is serving without pay, working often 10 and 12 hours a day nearly every day.

"My reason for coming to work," she laughs over a stack of letters and telegrams, "isn't very original. I just thought that every woman who can help, should help. And the consumer and his problems have interested me for years."

To train American housewives into the habit of dealing with establishments cooperating with the NRA is a special aim of Mary E. Hughes, an aid to General Johnson.

"Every woman a consumer signer" and "Every woman employer a signer of the President's agreement" are two objects before her as she seeks organization of 25,000,000 women along these lines.

The value of the consumer's dollar at the store counter has been a special study of Belle Sherwin, president of the League of Woman Voters, who is also on the board.

Then there is vivacious, red-haired Rose Schneiderman, who even has been to prison for her activities based on her convictions of the need for better labor conditions.

She spent her girlhood in "sweatshops." Now she represents her millions of co-workers on the Labor Advisory Board of the recovery administration.

A hat to her is more than an adornment. It is the tale of a woman bent wearily over machines in hours stolen from home and children—but a woman who now has her "day at court" with the effective little Miss Schneiderman as her spokesman.

Official Interpretation of President's Re-employment Agreement

Official Interpretation No. 1 concerning paragraph 7 in President's Blanket Code)—Paragraph 7 means, first, that compensation of employes above the minimum wage group (whether now fixed by the hour, day, week, or otherwise) shall not be reduced, either to compensate the employer for increases that he may be required to make in the minimum wage group in order to comply with the Agreement, or to turn this Re-employment Agreement into a mere share-the-work movement without a resulting increase of total purchasing power. This first provision of paragraph 7 is a general statement of what shall not be done.

The rest of this paragraph is a particular statement of what shall be done, which is that rates of pay for employes above the minimum wage group shall be increased by "equitable readjustment." No hard and fast rule can be laid down for such readjustments, because the variations in rates of pay and hours of work would make the application of any formula unjust in thousands of cases. We present, however, the following examples of the need for and methods of such readjustments:

Example 1: Employes now working forty hours per week in factories. When hours are reduced to thirty-five, the present rate per hour if increased one-seventh would provide the same compensation for a normal week's work as before.

Example 2: Employes now working sixty hours per week in factories. When hours are reduced to thirty-five, a rate per hour if increased one-seventh might be insufficient to provide proper compensation. But, to increase the rate by five-seventh, in order to provide the same compensation for thirty-five hours as previously earned in sixty, might impose an inequitable burden on the employer. The sixty-hour week might have been in effect because of a rush of business, although a forty-hour week might have been normal practice at the same hourly wage. Seasonal or temporary increases increases in hours now in effect, or recent increases in wages, are proper factors to be taken into consideration in making equitable readjustments.

The policy governing the readjustment of wages of all employes in what may be termed the higher wage groups requires, not a fixed rule, but "equitable readjustment" in view of long standing differentials in pay schedules; with due regard for the fact that payrolls are being heavily increased, and that employes will receive benefits from shorter hours, from the re-employment of other workers, and from stabilized employment which may increase their yearly earnings.

The foregoing examples indicate the necessity of dealing with this problem of "equitable readjustment" of the higher rates of pay, on the basis of consideration of the varying circumstances and conditions of the thousands of enterprises and employments involved. Any attempt to define a national standard would be productive of widespread injustice. The National Recovery Administration will, through local agencies, observe carefully the manner in which employers comply with their agreement to make "equitable readjustments," and will take from time to time and announce from Washington such action as may be necessary to correct and clear cases of unfairness and to aid conscientious employers in carrying out in good faith the terms of the agreement.

When an employer signs an agreement and certifies his compliance and also joins in the submission of a Code of Fair Competition before September 1, 1933, his determination of what are "equitable readjustments" should be accepted, at least prior to September 1, as a prima facie compliance with his agreement, pending action by NRA upon the code submitted, or any other action by NRA taken to insure proper interpretations or applications of agreements. This will afford NRA an opportunity to survey the general results of the re-employment program and to iron out difficulties and misunderstandings over agreements that are of a substantial character.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Aug. 17—Miss Helen Hendricks of Schenectady is spending a few days at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Abram Every. Miss Hendricks has a number of friends in the village who are glad to see her again.

Michael Allen, [illegible] tender down at the reservoir, is making extensive improvements to the front lawn of his residence property on the main street of Shokan. The level of the lawn is being raised considerably, and soil for this purpose is hauled to the Allen place by truck. The new improvements supplement the double garage and crushed stone driveway recently completed for Mr. Allen.

Mrs. Reynolds Bishop and daughter, Mildred, of Pelham motored to Shokan Tuesday and spent Wednesday in this section.

One of the good springs on the Harvey Dibbell place from which water is piped to the buildings below, has yielded its normal flow of water all summer, being a water supply source which many a local householder would give a great deal to possess at this time. The spring was discovered many years ago quite by accident. Mr. Dibbell found a damp spot in one of his upper fields, set off a couple of sticks of dynamite in that point and the hole made by the blast ever since has been one of the few unfailing springs in this part of the north reservoir country.

Mrs. Philip Conrow of Springfield, L. I., and Mrs. J. Townsend of New York city have returned to their homes after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Giles of the old stage road.

Assessors Martin J. Every, Ezra Ellsworth and Nelson Bell held their annual Grievance Day session in Winchell's Hall on Tuesday. The guests on this occasion were few and far between, and as the success of these parties is reckoned inversely to the attendance, the labors of the assessors during the past few months apparently have been found satisfactory to the Olive taxpayers generally.

Fifty-nine years ago, at this time of the year, the local board of assessors was made up of the following gentlemen: John N. Weeks, Boiceville; Jonathan Winchell, Olive; and Alonzo Davis of Tongore. Of these men, Mr. Weeks had a farm of 250 acres. He was the grandfather of Mrs. Joseph Kinsey of Shokan. Mr. Winchell owned 150 acres of land, the place now being the property of Mrs. Lulu M. Chase. Mr. Davis, a Civil War veteran and owner of a 75-acre farm, was the father of former Supervisor Lester Davis, and a grandfather of Alonzo Davis, well known farmer and express messenger.

Virgil Rittenhouse, who formerly spent his summer vacations in the village, tells [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] Mr. Rittenhouse [illegible] stopping at Shandaken for a few days, is one of those sportsmen [illegible] fishing alone [illegible] he is after the trout [illegible]

Mrs. Abram Bogart and Mrs. Harmon Terwilliger of Prospect street were numbered among the Kingston residents in Shokan on Tuesday. Both ladies formerly made their homes here. Mr. [illegible] carpenter of the late Harry Coons of the mountain district, while Mrs. Terwilliger resided in the old village where her late husband was in business.

Another [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] Dr. S. A. Winne [illegible] and Mr. J. W. [illegible], an Olive resident of 30 years standing, still maintains a practice in the reservoir country.

At The Theatres

Today.

Kingston: "The Woman Accused," another of those talkies where a girl kills her former sweetheart. Things look black until who comes along but a handsome young lawyer with an understanding heart, and the damsel is saved from an awful future. Nancy Carroll and Cary Grant are the main attraction, with Jack LaRue and John Halliday in featured roles. Exciting melodrama.

Orpheum: "Luxury Liner" and "Scarlet River." George Brent, Frank Morgan, Vivienne Osborne, Zita Johann, Alice White and C. Aubrey Smith are among the many excellent players in this talkie that smacks much of the "Grand Hotel" manner. Excitement, romance and danger are all found on shipboard. "Scarlet River" is Tom Keene's latest western effort, and it is one of his best.

Broadway: "When Strangers Marry." This plot has been worked out before on the screen. Jack Holt, with a new bride and a job in the tropics, goes there looking forward to happiness and love. But things turn out badly. The young wife becomes bored looking at palm trees, and she finds more interest in looking for [illegible]. She finds one, and naturally that causes trouble. Jack Holt and Lilian Bond are the stars of this production.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "Narrow Corner." Somerset Maugham's novel of love and romance in the tropics, has been brought to the screen in this beautifully photographed and well acted talkie of an outcast white boy who steals the sweetheart of his best friend, and although the play seems unduly depressing at times the direction and settings of the production are so finely drawn that the picture is much worth seeing. Some of the scenes aboard boat, especially the storm scenes, are as well done as one could possibly desire. A fine cast includes Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Patricia Ellis, Ralph Bellamy, Dudley Digges, Arthur Hohl and William V. Mong.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "Her First Mate." Zasu Pitts of the fluttering hands and Slim Summerville who is capable of looking less intelligent than any other actor, are co-starred again in this new comedy hit that has to do with the sea. Something, coupled with disagreements and troubles of a description. Mr. Summerville has his mind set on the life of a sailor but Miss Pitts wants to settle down on land. The play has been written to give the two stars full opportunity to display their talents, and they do a good job.

PLAN CARD PARTY IN STONE RIDGE AUG. 22

Those who have attended any of the affairs of the Guild know that they have a pleasant evening in store for them.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

Even in Dreams, Style's Still on Our Shoulders

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

The elaboration of the upper section of the bodice in gowns and jackets as it is being developed this fall is illustrated in the sketches shown here. The gown at the left works out a dress idea in its corded rings at the shoulders to hold the fulness; the rosettes which form the girdle snap on to remove for laundering.

The second gown has a neckwear treatment in its fagoted shoulders finished at the center front with tiny white pearl buttons.

The little separate jacket in crepe and alencon has the shirred ruffle sleeve which is being featured in gowns as well this year, and fastens at the center front with a throw-over scarf.

Neck and Shoulders Ahead of the Season

New York—Wings and fins are part and parcel of a woman's smart equipment. Both are adjacent to the shoulder, as in the coat sketched, which has a fin-like arrangement over the top of the sleeve. From now on you will see frequent references to fins in fashion copy. You will also hear of bretelles which also extend the shoulder line, usually by way of being a tapering band. Wide shoulders appear to be here to stay.

Sensibly enough, dress, and coat designers too, are thinking up other ways of giving sleeves width other than by inflating them. Puff sleeves are not "out" but neither can one say they are definitely "in." Sleeves are full at the shoulder, but manage to acquire their fullness by means other than a simple puff.

It won't be long now before fall coats are not only of general but personal interest. You will find plenty of variety, with and without fur. Eel, and the darker grays, including mouse, being the novelty color range, you will perhaps be tempted to choose one of these very practical tones particularly in a mixture. A black coat over a gray dress may please you better than a gray coat over a black one, but it is not as new looking. The white coat over black vanishes with the rose, and in its place comes gray, the autumnal interpretation of the same, light over dark, idea.

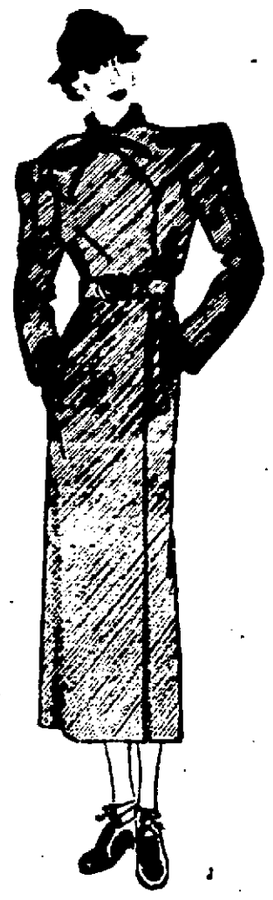

With your gray coat, wear either black or brown accessories, brown ones are very chic. Remember, though, one cannot select any old brown and expect it to harmonize with any old gray.

In choosing a coat, whether it has a fur collar or not remember that collars are just now erect. They are high and narrow rather than broad, which is a new line and one that is very easy to wear. The scarf collar is the most important exception to this rule.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The chenille rib that resembles velvet is being taken up for one-piece sports frocks.

FINS ARE IN THE SWIM OF COURSE

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

A new version of the polo coat. The silhouette is straight and belted while the square shoulder is achieved by tapering "fins". The scarf collar slips through a wooden loop, a medium that also makes the buckle and buttons.

Capital of Turkey

Constantinople, or Istanbul, as it is called in Turkish, ceased to be the capital of Turkey when that country became a republic in 1922. Since that time Ankara, formerly spelled Angora, has been the capital of the Turkish republic.

The Oboe

The oboe for many years has been regarded as a pastoral instrument associated with green fields, skipping lambs, rills and hills, joyous or amorous shepherds. It is true that in earlier years it was a martial instrument when its tone was coarser.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Stylish Frock For The Larger Woman.

7938. Slenderizing and smart is this attractive two piece model. Wide revers outline a deep vestee. The fitted peplum holds the blouse with becoming fulness above the belt. The sleeve boasts of an under cuff. The skirt is cut to form wide panels, in front and back, with concealed fulness in its plait lines. It is a frock for town or country wear, nice in sheer woolens or silks and excellent also for tweeds, satins, linen or gingham.

Designed in 9 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 46 will require 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material, together with ⅝ yard of contrasting material for vestee and cuffs. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2¼ yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

First Cremation in U. S.

The first cremation in the Occident took place in America in 1792, when Col. Henry Laurens, president of the Continental congress of 1777-78, a member of General Washington's military staff and one of the four commissioners who arranged the peace treaty with England after the Revolution (a Freemason), was cremated, according to directions left in his will, on his estate at Charleston, S. C. A week later the body of a close friend of his was the second cremation of record in this country.

More Crochet

There is no lessening in enthusiasm for hand crochet. If you can crochet, here is an outfit you will be eager to start making right away, and the time and energy spent on it will reap rich reward in terms of ultra chic. Then, too, this trio of hat, gloves and sweater will prove a treasure in your wardrobe in that it is eminently practical and will be found always ready to wear since, being crocheted of white cotton, it launders. Loose mesh and tight crochet stitches are cleverly combined to make the high-yoke sweater.

Etruscans a Puzzle

The Etruscans of Italy are one of the strangest puzzles in history, for these people lived within historic times and yet their origin is still disputed and their language undeciphered.

Lambs Born in Mine.

Opal, Wyo.—When a cold snap broke over the wide-open spaces of Wyoming, Matt Bertagnolli, Opal sheep owner, had his herder run a band of sheep into a coal mine to escape the storm. Nearly 100 lambs were born in the mine during the storm and all of the sheep and lambs were saved.

Travels 2,000,000 Miles

Boston.—G. Abner Silsbee, seventy-nine, beginning his sixty-third year in the passenger service of the Boston & Maine railroad, figures he traveled about 2,000,000 miles as a conductor, and before that as a brakeman.

Flowers' Odor After Rain

Flowers smell much more strongly after a shower of rain. The reason for this is that the dampness of the atmosphere prevents the scent from spreading very far. Being confined to a smaller area it is naturally more noticeable.

Business Pick-up New Excuse for Jury Evaders

Memphis, Tenn.—For the first time in the last several years, a new excuse is being used to be freed from jury duty, and is working.

"Judge, my business is picking up, and I just can't afford to leave it," 150 of the 500 veniremen summoned for May jury service in the Criminal and Circuit courts told Judge Ben Capell.

Only 60 volunteered for service. Three months ago when veniremen were summoned, more than half of them volunteered. Judge Capell excused the majority of those who he was convinced would suffer a financial loss by serving on the jury.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

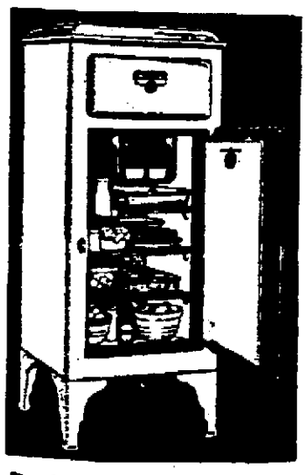

WE HAVE JUST TAKEN ON A COMPLETE LINE OF Westinghouse

Dual-automatic Refrigerators

We are announcing our appointment as your dealer in Westinghouse Dual-automatic Refrigerators. And may we add . . . that never before in our years of business have we been so enthusiastic, so impressed, as we are with the outstanding advantages and unsurpassed performance of this modern refrigerator.

OPERATING COSTS SLASHED 15%

The new Westinghouse provides efficiency never before attained in domestic refrigeration.

Set the automatic temperature selector at any of the five normal operating positions. You save 15% in electric current over the same refrigerating and freezing power in less up-to-date models.

If you have plenty of ice in the tray, and merely want to maintain a good refrigerating temperature, set the selector in the Economatic position. You save 25% more.

Basically Unchanged—Phenomenally Improved

You still get extra thick Westinghouse insulation. You still get the dual-automatic mechanism—the Built-in Watchman that doubly protects every Westinghouse refrigerator. You also get built-in electric flood lighting, extra bottle space, improved, convenient shelf spacing, handy latch door opener, and the convenient select-a-cube ice trays.

Come in! See these and other novel features. Remember that it is an extravagance to pay more, a gamble to pay less.

L. S. WINNIE & CO.

Also your Dealer in Westinghouse Washing Machines, Ironers, Cleaners.

Watch our future announcements telling you more of Westinghouse Electric Appliances.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

North Vernon, Ind., Aug. 18 (AP)—Carl Olds, 35, Newcastle, Ind., is dead because he went to sleep while hunting squirrels.

Before his death in a Seymour hospital, he said he lost his way in the woods as darkness fell, lay down to rest, and fell asleep. Daylight awakened him. He stretched his legs. A foot struck his shotgun, sending a charge into his shoulder and arm.

Argues With Bear, Loses

Provo, Utah—Smith Brimhall had an argument with a large brown bear in a nearby canyon and came out second best. Brimhall, who related poor eyesight prevented him from seeing the animal until he was upon him, said the bear reared up on his hind legs and knocked him down with a blow on the chest, then ambled away. Brimhall was uninjured.

She Runs, B'Gosh

New York — Jesse Betcourt's friend, Juan Silva, bought a truck for $25.

He pressed the starter. The truck ran—right into the East river, with Jesse screaming: "Where's the brakes."

He swam to shore and got a summons for driving without a license.

Wins Fight for Life

Galveston, Texas — William Aldridge, a fisherman living on North Deer Island, was bitten by a rattlesnake.

Although suffering intensely, he rowed his skiff seven miles to Virginia Point. An ambulance took him to a hospital. Aldridge had tried to give himself first aid by cutting away the poisoned flesh with a knife.

Hobo Royalty Waxing

Chicago — The hobo convention disclosed that "kings of the hoboes were about as numerous as blackberries." As one liegeman put it: "In the eastern provinces with New York as capital we have his gracious majesty, Dan O'Brien; at Cincinnati King Jeff Davis; and in Chicago King MacBeth with a few others running loose in various other regions. But a real hobo knows no king."

Plants That Irritate Skin

There are some seventy native plants that produce chemical irritation of the skin. Among these are the nettle, primrose, cowhage, mistletoe, smartweed, oleander, sumac and others. But the poison ivy is the greatest offender, and produces an exclusively American disease.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Although the burning of the inflation fire was not quite so pronounced today, financial markets maintained most of their substantial gains of yesterday in quiet and unessential trading.

After an opening upward flurry, in which various stocks advanced a point or more, the share market settled down to watch for further developments from both Washington and Chicago. While the dollar again was heavy in terms of sterling and European gold currencies, this seemingly was not considered as important as in the previous session. Grains moved up at the start, but profit taking was encountered and the uprising passed. Cotton held around its Thursday's closing level. Bonds generally were steady to firm.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included Liggett & Myers, B. U. S. Smelting, Loews, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Can, Johns-Manville, Chrysler, Santa Fe and American Tobacco B. Case Threshing, National Distillers, Pennsylvania, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, New York Central, Westinghouse, International Harvester, Santa Fe and Western Union were moderately lower.

Some renewal of public participation was reported in yesterday's flurry, but it was mostly of the odd-lot type. More business of this character appeared in the early hours today, but volume, in most cases, was small. Professionals continued to pass stocks back and forth on the floor with intermittent waves of enthusiasm, and orders on the specialists' books, either to buy or sell, were still exceedingly slim.

Week-end trade reviews reported recessions from the mid-summer peak were somewhat larger than a week ago, but found there had been no serious slowing down of industry and that the possibility of any sizeable recessions was now remote.

Greeks and Grecians

In the New Testament a sharp distinction is made between Greeks and Grecians. A Greek was a Gentile, either a native of Greece proper or of some country using the Greek language, while a Grecian is a Jew, speaking Greek, and using the Greek translation of the Old Testament.

Toll Gate, Milestones, Turnpike, Plank Road

Shokan, Aug. 18.—Old records show that the receipts at the Kingston toll gate for August 17-24, 1863, totalled $138, a tidy sum indeed, considering that the time was the dark days of our great Civil War. Saturday was the best business day at the toll gate, the average receipts being about $25. The rate charged per team is not stated, though within the memory of many persons now living, a toll of eight cents was exacted at the gate house on the old Britt place. Supposing, for a moment, that the levy was still in effect, and figuring on a minimum of 2,400 cars a day, why, the state or some one would be making real money, and the work of repairing this ancient highway which has been going on faithfully for years, might easily be continued ad infinitum.

The late Judge DeWitt C. Davis of Shokan as a young man kept the Kingston toll gate 70 years ago and Sheriff Davis Winne of Shandaken was his employer. The friendship of these prominent residents of adjoining townships was begun several years previously, probably about the time that Mr. Winne commanded the Olive-Shandaken company of the 20th Regiment, then a state militia organization, and Mr. Davis was a lieutenant in the same outfit. Mr. Davis subsequently sawed off several fingers in a stave machine, and consequently was not with the boys of Colonel Pratt's famous regiment when it left Kingston for the seat of war. Captain Winne also being unable to continue in command of his company, it was but natural that upon assuming the duties of sheriff of Ulster county he should appoint young Davis, with whose sterling qualities he was well acquainted, to his official staff, with a result that the two men, as sheriff and jailor respectively, saw some pretty active service right here on the home front, during the months that the county jail was crowded with deserters and draft evaders. Again, with Mr. Winne operating the Plank Road, Mr. Davis was his right-hand man at the toll gate for a season.

Freeman readers who still carry in the mind's eye a picture of the old toll gate will probably also recall the milestones, bearing a striking resemblance to the old time cemetery headstones, which were set in the ground at intervals along the Plank Road. There was one of these stones near the Methodist Church in the old village of Shokan, another at the C. MacDonough place and a third one at the Old School Baptist Church, or what is now the center of the village. In waterworks construction days these markers had been in place for 80 years, or since the building of the turnpike from Kingston into Delaware county in 1831-32. The turnpike, which proved an enterprise of inestimable economic importance to Ulster and Delaware counties, was the first good road up the Shandaken Valley. It immediately became a great thoroughfare, over which thousands upon thousands of two-horse loads of bluestone flagging and curbing, staves, hoops, heading, bark, hides and sundry other products of the mountain towns were to pass in the years to follow.

In 1851 the turnpike was succeeded for a part of its distance by a plank road, built by the Union Plank Road Company—hence the name which still clings to this familiar highway, which motorists from a distance know from maps and markers to be Route 28, of which the north Ashokan boulevard is a part. Heavy loads soon put the plank pavement out of business, it being in fact even more short-lived than similar roads in other parts of the country at that time. Then followed a "stone road," built of two strips of heavy blue stone slabs, laid end to end and extending from the Beaverkill quarries in the town of Hurley to the Higginsville bridge over the Esopus Creek. From there to Wilbur a plank road was laid about 1850, and, like the upper section, was changed to stone in 1860. The stone pavement was durable though not indestructible, as wagon wheel grooves in the slabs several inches deep showed in the years preceding the construction of state macadamized road.

It was over the original turnpike that Capt. David P. Mapes, of Hudson river steamboat annals fame, established his four-horse stage coach line. Mapes had been successful in operating the Vanderbilt steamer "General Jackson" between Kingston and New York city (he claimed to have "paid for her the first season"), and next proposed to turn his early acquaintance in Delaware county to advantage. The folks up that way had been trading through Catskill, which was connected with Delhi by a stage coach line. Mapes' Kingston friends, to whom he proposed the idea of getting in closer touch with the Delaware county seat, replied that no, the place had been a large town for over a hundred years, and nothing ever came in from the west except, once a week, a boy on horseback with saddle-bags. Mapes went to Washington and got a mail route established, then brought three Troy coaches and 30 horses. The line was at once a success and a sensation: people living along the road throughout the valley and into Delaware county fired off anvils, swung their caps and shouted "Great Is the Captain" as Mapes, riding in a coach on the initial trip, caught the music of their plaudits above the rattle of wheels and thunder of 16 hoofs as the equipage thundered up the turnpike. It was a gala day for the mountain folks and one which not even the advent, some years later, of the first railroad train to the terminal at Longyear's (Mt. Pleasant), could quite eclipse.

Preserving Books With Air

The life of books can be greatly lengthened in libraries by proper air conditioning. Air washed with water, to which is added sufficient sodium compounds, will completely remove acids from the air, according to the bureau of standards. Acids, and especially sulphur dioxide—nearly always present in the air of industrial cities—destroy paper, turning it yellow and brittle, and causing it to crack and tear easily. The alkaline treatment of the air also prevents corrosion of metal furniture and equipment.

End of Captain Kidd

William (Captain) Kidd was born in Scotland and came to America when young; in 1695 the governor of Massachusetts placed him in command of a ship to suppress piracy, but he turned pirate and terrorized the coast. He was finally arrested, sent to England for trial and convicted of murder and hanged May 23, 1701. An English biographer says: "Whatever may have been Kidd's crime, it was clear that he had not had a fair trial, and was found guilty on insufficient evidence."

Frank Shields Won From Vines Today

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, was beaten today by Frank X. Shields of New York in straight sets in the semi-final round of the Casino tournament. Vines, Casino winner for the past two years, was eliminated, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Shields, who has been playing spectacular tennis in the recent eastern grass tourneys, was even more impressive against the Davis Cup ace than he was when running up his straight set victory over Frankie Parker, brilliant Milwaukee youngster in yesterday's quarter-finals play.

He made but 31 errors in the 25 games, against 53 for Vines, who was had the surprising total of 54 nets and three double faults.

Vines' spectacular smashing service gave him only three aces, while it was betraying him. Shields was also credited with three service aces, but 20 more of his serves came over with such fury that Vines either netted them or drove them far beyond the baseline.

Weather conditions were decidedly unfavorable, the court was soggy, and thick waves of fog from the harbor drifted over the players continually. A heavy shower broke while Vines was making his last stand in the ninth game of the deciding set and forced a halt in the semi-finals duel between Wilmer Allison, Vines' Davis Cup teammate and his runner-up here last year, and Clifford Sutter, the New Orleans star, which started shortly after Shields and Vines got under way.

Allison had a set lead when the rain halted the match. He dropped the first to Sutter at 6-3, but took the next two at 6-4 and 6-2.

PORT EWEN

"Henry's Wedding," the big three-act comedy of married life and old time 1890 styles, is to be staged on September 7 and 8 in Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, under the sponsorship of the M. E. Church. This is one of the outstanding community productions of the year and promises to be a hit from start to finish. "Henry's Wedding" has been staged throughout America with unusual success in many towns, and the M. E. Church officials are glad to be able to announce the staging of the same in this village. The high spot of the production is the beaux and belles of grandma's time portrayed by 40 prominent men in the city who will show exactly how the sheiks and flappers of 1890 dressed and danced. This specialty will all be costumed in the famous old styles of 1890 when the people drank pink lemonade at picnics and rode in buggies drawn by horses. Another outstanding feature is the colored brethren and sisters of the Mystic Shrine, composed of approximately 40 of the city's most prominent men and women singers. This group sings a number of old time negro minstrel and spiritualistic songs. In addition to this there are a number of high school choruses which round out the production as a big success.

A posse of 12 officers was called out at Olathe, Kas., to round up two suspected chicken thieves.

Alleged Assailants Had Hearing

The three men arrested Monday on warrants secured by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray charging them with assault in the second degree as being alleged participants in the attack on George E. Van Aken at Ellenville Saturday morning had a hearing before Police Justice Charles F. Kaiser, Jr. Thursday afternoon. They waived examination and were held for appearance before the grand jury, bail being continued at $2,500 each.

Following their arrest Monday evening the three defendants were arraigned before Judge Kaiser and through their attorney, Philip Shirley, demanded an examination and the case was set down for a hearing Thursday afternoon. The men were held in the village lock-up until nearly 5 o'clock Tuesday morning when the bail of $2,500 each was furnished by Mrs. Fanny Cohen of Woodridge, mother of Peter Cohen.

The three arrested are Peter Cohen of the Capitol Coach Lines, Ellenville, George Cohen, son of the proprietor of the Terrace Hill House, Ellenville, and Morris Rand of Oak Ridge.

The Journal says that Attorney LeRoy Lounsberry was retained Tuesday evening by the defendants. The same paper states that since the attack Mr. Van Aken's home had been visited and one material witness has been threatened over the telephone.

Quaint Rental Custom

A Thirteenth century ceremony was re-enacted in a room at the Law Courts, London. Years ago quit rent in the form of faggots had to be paid to the crown for a piece of moorland in Shropshire, and six horseshoes, with 61 nails, for a forge in the parish of St. Clement Danes, given by Henry III to a farrier, as a tribute to his skill. Both properties have long been lost, but the city corporation still pays the rent. The king's remembrancer, in wig and gown, watched the payment of the rent by the city solicitor. Two bundles of twigs—a substitute for faggots—were cut in half, one with a bill-hook and the other with an ax. Then followed the six large horseshoes and 61 nails, which were carefully counted.—Montreal Herald.

SMART FALL SUITS BROAD-SHOULDERED

Heralded as "Last Word" in Tailored Clothes.

New broad-shouldered, high-necked suits have made their debut in prominent dressmakers' salons as the "last word" in tailored clothes for late summer and early fall wear.

Rich woods are used as the outstanding fabric, although velveteen makes a few of the more tailored models. Shades are generally sober, with black, brown and gray in the lead, but scarfs and touches add a flash of color as effective as a brilliant sunset on a winter landscape.

The suits are designed with slender skirts 8 to 11 inches from the ground and plain hip-length or three-quarter-length jackets which hang almost straight. Padded shoulders, epaulettes and yokes are used to give exaggerated width to the shoulders and slenderize the rest of the silhouette.

SHOULDER BREADTH
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

In order to meet the challenge for shoulder breadth which the new silhouette calls for, designers are employing all sorts of materials which are crisp and "starchy" in appearance. The two French fashions here shown and which were worn at the races are typical of the trend. The belted jacket is a smart model, its fluted trimming and double-caped sleeves being outstanding style details. The velvet-crowned white hat is especially noteworthy. The other gown is a study in organdie, since it combines dainty crossbar organdie with plain. Exaggerated shoulder width bespeaks ultra chic for this costume. Also the fact that the broad brimmed linen hat is trimmed in the same organdie which fashions the dress is significant.

FLASHES FROM PARIS

Velvet more than ever is in prospect.

An elegance revival is on in style centers.

Shaggy pile fabrics are on the way for fall and winter.

Feather your hat is the message from the millinery realm.

The new silhouette calls for wide sailor collars which give shoulder breadth.

A close alliance between millinery and handbag styling is noted in advance showings.

Fluttering accessories such as feather boas and organdie ruches are much in evidence.

Evening Clothes Cling to Feminine Softness

With a pooh-pooh and a shrug of one softly draped shoulder at the rumored masculine mode, clothes for evening have gone more feminine than ever. Long flowing lines, dramatic capes and seductive new muffs conspire to make Milady as alluringly gracious as ever she was in the day of chaise longues and the vapors. Many of the models seen at the style openings revealed a glimpse of the ankle in front, swooping down into a train at the rear. In most of these cases the waistline follows this down-at-the-back movement with gratefully slimming results. There is a black Mainbocher dress made of heavy flat crepe with a fan-pleated section flaring out at the back of the skirt. A cape of the pleating cut in long dripping points can be flung about the shoulders any which way.

All Duty Coats

Those clever big-sleeved pique or linen coats and jackets, that are so smart with black or brown outfits, are everywhere, every hour, and are being worn with any outfit in the wardrobe.

Voile Swagger Suits

Quite a new paradox in fashion is the voile swagger costume. Old-fashioned voile made into the newest swagger of costumes. Cool, washable, and refreshing to look at, with its organdy trimming.

Platinum Most Malleable

Colombia produces a large amount of the world's platinum. It is the most malleable of metals. It can be spun so fine that a cubic inch can be drawn into wire 50,000 miles long. It would take 23,000 of these strands to make the thickness of a hair.

Number of Men in Boer War

In the Boer war, there were engaged on the British side from the outbreak of the war until the conclusion of peace 448,435 men of all arms. The number of men the Boers had will probably never be known. It has been estimated by competent authorities at from 60,000 to 65,000.

Tobacco is grown in nearly all sections of Mexico and the industry ranks third in manufacturing importance.

Health is half of success

Few men achieve their goal without vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation. It dulls energy, often causes headaches, sleeplessness. It takes the vim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Repealers and Schryvers Ready For City League Series

When the Morgan Repealers, winners of the first half of the City League, and the Schryver Lumbermen, champions of the second half, meet at the Athletic Field Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock two of the most evenly matched teams of this vicinity will face each other. In four games played already by these two nines during the regular schedule they broke even, each club winning two games.

The margins of the four games were small, the last two games going to the Lumbermen by 2-0 scores with Big Ed Wilson doing the elbowing. Wilson dropped one decision as did Bill Hornbeck, another right-hander on the Lumbermen's pitching staff. Ted Fraleigh did all the hurling for the Repealers in the four games, getting credit for two wins. He hurled effectively in all four games.

Wilson will be the Lumbermen's starting pitcher. He has one of the fastest balls thrown in the county and is expected to cause the Repealers a lot of trouble. His opponent will be "Spec" Ellis, who used to pitch when the Colonials were playing. Ted Fraleigh will be held in reserve by the Repealers and may get a chance in the field as he is a hard hitter.

There is little difference in the catching departments of the two clubs. Although Joie Hoffman, first string receiver of the Repealers, is younger and much faster than Jack Robins, Lumbermen's catcher, Robins has many years of experience behind him and is the steadiest catcher the city has had in a long time. Ben Benjamin is the Repealers' second string catcher while Bob McGuire does the relief work for the Lumbermen.

Both teams will use the same infields they played during the regular season and there is little to choose between the two. The Repealers will lineup with C. Tiano on first base, L. Bruhn on third, Bob Sickler or F. Bruhn at short and Tommy Davitt at second. The Lumbermen can use either Johnny Carpenter or Percy Slover at first base, "Dutch" Glaser at third, W. Petersen at short, and Norm Niles at second.

In the outer garden the Repealers will have an edge on the defense with Lay, Knight and Merritt, but the Lumbermen will make up the difference as Carpenter, McGuire, L. Tiano and Jansen wield a heavier stick.

The Repealers as a whole lead the Lumbermen with a team batting average of .319. The Lumbermen are not far behind, boasting a .309 average.

Jimmy Morgan, manager of the Repealers, thinks his team is going to win the series in two straights. He says that his men will knock Wilson off the mound in a nine-inning game.

Percy Slover, manager of the Lumbermen, thinks differently. Wilson says he is going to duplicate his last two feats by blanking the Repealers again.

At a meeting at the city hall Thursday evening the managers decided a five-game series would be too long drawn out and voted in favor of a three-game battle. They also voted to use Bill Schwab and Dick Dulin as official umpires.

After the close of the season the league will hold a clambake instead of the usual dinner in the fall. Players and fans are welcome.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

While the New York Yankees were finding that Lou Gehrig's brand new major league endurance record, established yesterday when "Buster Lou" played his 1,308th consecutive game with a minimum of ceremony, was about the only bright spot they have seen on their current western trip, Washington's Senators were equalling a record of sorts and at the same time learning that Monte Weaver can be of great assistance to them in their pennant drive.

Weaver, who was rendered inactive during the large part of the season by a sore arm, let the Chicago White Sox down with four hits to win his third straight victory since he got back into service by a 14-1 score. It was the ninth in a row for the Senators, equalling the season's long run mark, made by the Yankees.

The fact that Gehrig became the official major league "iron man" by surpassing the record set by Everett Scott, former Yankee shortstop, before Lou broke into the big league and Babe Ruth's celebration of the end of his two day vacation by busting his 27th homer of the season still couldn't save the Yankees from a 7-6, ten inning defeat by the St. Louis Browns. Lefty Gomez failed to hold the Browns, Rogers Hornsby belted a pinch homer to tie the score in the ninth and Jim Levey doubled in the tenth to send Oscar Melillo home with the winning run. The loss put the Yanks 7½ games behind Washington.

Gehrig received a silver cup from William Harridge, American League president, as he carried his unbroken string of games which started when he went in as a pinch hitter on June 1, 1925, to its record length.

The Senators, riding high along the road toward the pennant, walloped an old nemesis, Walter Miller, and three successors for 16 hits behind Weaver's near perfect flinging.

The Cleveland Indians continued to make life miserable for the Philadelphia Athletics by plastering out 19 hits for 33 bases off George Earnshaw and three throwers who followed him to win the series final 15 to 4. The victory gave them exclusive possession of fourth place as the combination of Bob Weiland's five hit hurling and Eldon Auker's wildness gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-2 victory over Detroit.

The New York Giants again improved their position in the National League, taking another game from Cincinnati by a 7-2 count while the weather kept their leading rivals inactive. The Giants rapped Benny Frey for five runs in the first inning and made it easy for Bud Parmelee by pulling off five double plays.

The second place Pittsburgh Pirates and third place Chicago Cubs were rained out at Brooklyn and Boston respectively, giving the Giants a 4½ game lead over the Buccaneers.

Boston's idleness enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to gain a tie for fourth place by walloping the Phillies 9 to 5 in a game marked by home run swatting. Joe Medwick walloped two homers and Jim Collins one for the Cards while Shuck Klein countered with his 20th of the season. A six run outburst in the fifth put the game on ice for St. Louis.

Woodstock Game for N. R. Socials Sunday

Sunday afternoon the North Rondout Social Club will go to Woodstock to play the artist colony team that holds one decision over it. In their battle for revenge the North Rondouters will use their star southpaw, Eddie Baker, old Colonial hurler. Joe Gardner will be his battery mate. It is expected that Woodstock will use Philmely to pitch and Carlton to catch.

Horses to Be Feature Of County Fair Exhibit

In past years the Agricultural Society has offered premiums for various classes of horses but a real show is expected this year. According to advance reports most of the draft horse and riding classes will be filled. All available stalls in the large new barn at the new armory are likely to be filled.

Dr. Leo J. Palmer, superintendent of the Medium Security Prison at Wallkill, is making plans to have his string of fine riding horses, as well as some riding and draft horses owned by the prison at the fair. Kenneth Archer and A. H. Chambers of Kingston are among those who have also entered their well known riding horses. John H. Beatty and Sons, John Schoonmaker, Roy Denniston, Fred DuBois and Mr. Chambers have made entries in the draft horse classes.

The Agricultural Society has been fortunate to secure the services of Dr. E. C. Van Dusen of Athens as the judge in the horse department. Dr. Van Dusen is well known in the Hudson Valley and has judged at many of the leading horse shows.

GARDEN INDOOR SHOW NOT SO SUCCESSFUL

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—Despite the attraction of a promising fight and its boasted cooling system, plus the removal of the no-smoking ban, Madison Square Garden's experiment with an indoor summer fight show failed to bring much promise for the future when only about 5,000 fans turned out last night to see Patsy Perroni, young Cleveland heavyweight, give Izzy Gastanaga a sound whipping.

Perroni, who weighed 189 to the husky Spaniard's 190½, took the aggressive from the start and had little trouble with his opponent's wild right hand swings. He ran his two-year string of victories to 21 in a row, outboxing Gastanaga in a decisive fashion and stinging him with short lefts.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Not much attention was paid to Hans Heinrich Sievert of Hamburg, Germany, out around the Olympic Stadium in Los Angeles last summer. His name and performances in the decathlon championship were duly noted. He finished fifth, but what of it?

Wasn't our agile James Aloysius Bausch of Kansas doing all manner of sensational stunts in this premier all-around test, whipping the famous Finns at their own sport of spear-tossing, pole vaulting 13 feet with a mighty hoist of his 200 pounds and setting a new all-time decathlon record?

James Aloysius was doing just that. When they added up his total points—8462.23 — we all credited him with a performance that in some respects made a piker out of even the great Jim Thorpe and forecast that this was one record likely to remain on the books for a long time.

Bausch's Reign Short

How long? Less than a year, my friends, for I have before me the detailed verification of that three-line item you may have noticed recently, crediting Hans Heinrich Sievert of Hamburg with a new world record total of 8467.62 points, and with all performances duly checked.

It's not much of a margin by which to knock a world record out of the books but it's enough and our James will have to start all over again if he wants to keep his name listed in the best athletic company after this year.

Sievert Has the Edge

The comparison of performances leaves no doubt that Sievert turned in a better all-around performance than Bausch.

The German has superior marks in six out of the ten events making up the decathlon and ties Bausch in a seventh. The American's biggest edge is in the pole vault but he also is best in the shotput and javelin throw. Hans Heinrich, however, apparently can run quite a bit faster and jump higher or farther than James Aloysius.

Here are the rival details:

100 meters run	:11.4	:11.7
400 meters run	:54	:54.2
1500 meters run	4:49.8	5:17
110 meter hurdles	:16.2	:16.2
Broad jump	23 ft. 3¾ in.	22 ft. 9¾ in.
High jump	5 ft. 11 5-8 in.	5 ft. 7 in.
Pole vault	11 ft. 2 in.	13 ft. 2 in.
Shotput	47 ft. 9 in.	50 ft. 2¾ in.
Discus throw	152 ft. ½ in.	146 ft. 2¼ in.
Javelin throw	195 ft.	208 ft. 1½ in.

Vines Will Play Shields Today

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP).—Frank X. Shields had his work cut for him today as he faced Ellsworth Vines, the national titlist, in the semi-finals round of the Newport Casino tennis tournament.

Vines, whose game has improved greatly since his Davis Cup collapse against Frederick J. Perry in the interzone finals with England, gained the second last round by defeating Lester Stoefen, lanky Los Angeles star.

Shields marched into the semi-finals after coming from behind to lick Frankie Parker, the 17-year-old tennis robot from Milwaukee.

The upper half of the semi-final round brought together Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, third seeded nationally, and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., who shared the Davis Cup singles assignment with Vines and was his runner-up here last year.

George Lott and Stoefen entered the doubles semi-finals, via a victory over Perry and Frank F. D. Wilde, chunky fellow Britisher, and Jack Tidball and Gene Mako, both of Los Angeles, were defeated by Vines and Gledhill, the defending champions.

Stars Will Play Scranton Giants

Weather permitting, the Kingston All Stars fresh from a 9-4 victory over the New York Black Giants will meet the Scranton Colored Giants this evening at the Fair Grounds. Starting time of the game is 6:15. Expectations are that there will be a large number of spectators to witness it.

The All Stars, who were in a slump, overcame the Black Giants Wednesday evening in a game that went only seven innings. Darkness halted the fray in that frame when the visiting team decided it was best to call off the proceedings. At the time the score was 9-4 with Kingston at bat and two men out.

Having jumped into the win column, the All Stars expect to remain on the victorious road and are depending on Lefty Martin to pitch winning ball this evening. The rest of the lineup will be as usual.

Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds the Stars will meet the Highland American Legion team. Dewey Van Buren will toss 'em over for Kingston on this occasion.

"Rubber" Game at St. Remy Sunday

The third and deciding game of the series between Connelly and Port Ewen will be played at St. Remy Sunday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. Indications are that there will be a record turnout of fans on hand for the tilt.

For the other two games played by the teams, the St. Remy grounds were jammed with spectators who urged the teams on in their fight for victory. Port Ewen won the first game, Connelly the second. Both clubs are out strong to take the deciding battle, so a gingery contest is promised.

Eddie Scherer probably will pitch for Connelly with Kozlowski behind the bat. Mannello and Short are expected to do the battery work for Port Ewen.

WOMEN TENNIS LEADERS IN BATTLE ROYAL TODAY

New York, Aug. 18 (AP).—After three days of sparring around against inferior opposition, eight survivors in the women's national tennis championships at Forest Hills found themselves locked in a battle royal today where everybody was hitting for keeps.

All four quarter-final matches promised to be hard fought, and with the exception of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, there wasn't a one of the girls with any kind of a guarantee she would be among those present when the roll was called at nightfall.

There were few, if any, ready to predict that Mrs. Moody would drop a set in her match with Mary Heeley of England. The seven-time winner from California has come to be regarded as something of a lion among the lambs. But the winner of the other three matches was about a toss-up.

Alice Marble, the blonde San Franciscan, was given an excellent chance of upsetting Betty Nuthall of England, winner of the 1930 tournament. Miss Marble had lost only four games in her first three matches, while the British star was well extended to put out Carolin Babcock, 6-4, 6-4, yesterday.

Dorothy Round, the British Sunday school teacher who won a set from Mrs. Moody at Wimbledon, appeared to have her work cut out for her against Sarah Palfrey, the Boston girl who almost overnight has become an important figure in women's tennis.

Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, was paired against her closest friend in tennis circles, Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Calif., and it looked like a tough day for Helen.

With the doubles tourney still in the second round, Mrs. Moody and her veteran English partner, Elizabeth Ryan, and the combination of Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey looked like the teams to beat.

TWO GAMES FOR SENECAS, SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Manager M. Debrosky of the Seneca baseball team has announced that his club will play at Lake Mohonk on Saturday and Sunday and travel to Phoenicia for a contest with the nine of that village.

Clintondale Wins Game.

Clintondale, Aug. 18.—The Allied Communities Fire Company baseball team defeated the Modena Fire Department nine, 3 to 2 on the Modena diamond Tuesday evening. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning on account of darkness.

Boxing Exhibition With "Is Zat So"

As an added attraction to the performance of the three act comedy "Is Zat So" Monday night at the Maverick Theatre, Woodstock, there will be a boxing match between Young Emerson of St. Remy and "Red" Margulies of Kingston.

It is expected that the bout will lend much to the presentation of the play, a prizefight comedy, in which Pat Collins, an experienced pugilist of Great Britian and Ireland plays the feature role.

Emerson and Marguiles were obtained through "Doc" Studer, who is also furnishing ring paraphernalia.

Monday is not the only night of the play, it having been staged Thursday and is scheduled for performances tonight and Saturday.

Union Hose Will March in Parade

Union Hose Company, with its old fashioned hose carriage brightly polished and decorated with flowers, marched off this morning to the State Firemen's Convention at Poughkeepsie where it was to lead the second division in the big parade this afternoon.

At 9:30 the firemen left their hose house on East Union street and paraded up East Strand to the Rhinebeck ferry, which they boarded and crossed the Hudson river to proceed to the convention by automobile.

Leading the parade was the Kingston Community Band of 25 pieces, which played stirring march tunes on the way. Acting Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman came next with Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Fire Commissioners Harry Kaplan, Harry Walker and Edward Moran. Commissioner Moran, a member of Union Hose for 25 years, wore the uniform of his company in the parade.

Other distinguished members of the company at the head of the marchers were City Judge Bernard A. Culloton, Sam N. Mann, deputy city clerk; Foreman William Keating of the hose company and William Geary, who is a member of the Kingston paid fire department stationed at Cornell Hose on Abeel street.

Upon reaching Poughkeepsie, Union Hose will be the guest of Cadillac Steamer Company.

Members of the hose company give much credit to Foreman Keating and his assistant, Ernest Brown, for their efforts and plans in getting ready for the convention.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Aug. 18—Lauren Henley's Chevrolet truck caught fire due to defective wiring, it is believed, while at work on the Krumville county road job Thursday afternoon. Fortunately the fire was extinguished by the driver, Bob York, and fellow workmen, before serious damage resulted.

Mrs. Chauncey Van DeMark of Chichester returning from a Kingston shopping trip accompanied by several city guests, called on her sister, Mrs. Elwyn Davis, Thursday afternoon at West Shokan Heights.

Mrs. Sarah Dwyer was numbered among thrifty community shoppers taking advantage of the Dollar Day sales in Kingston Thursday.

Among former neighbors here who have visited Mrs. Harry Jones of the spillway section recently were Mrs. Rachel Ken and daughter, Jennie, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Bell and Mrs. Ernest Eckert.

Very favorable progress is being made with the shingling on the Marvin Van Demark residence on Main street.

Commissioner William Jordan of Brodhead Heights was a caller here Thursday in line of his duty.

A New York policeman and his family are now occupying the Hesley bungalow at West Shokan Heights.

One of the big Dairymen's League Milk trucks passed through here via the west boulevard enroute from Delaware county convoyed by Trooper Riley on his motorcycle. This is about the only first hand information peace loving farmers here have learned of the seriousness of the upstate milk strike.

Thursday afternoon a group of willing workers consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Jones, Martin J. Every and Mrs. John Bell were engaged getting the tables in order in the church basement and cleaning up in readiness for the annual West Shokan Baptist fair and supper dated for August 23.

The rains have revitalized the High Point and Hoop-pole mountain huckleberry crop and groups of pickers are hieing themselves to the lofty heights daily.

Ernie Constable of High Point mountain with the aid of his divining rods hopes to locate the site of a water gusher on William Colange's reservoir property to augment the present supply.

Able Constable, veteran Department of Water Supply employe, is using his after work periods to level off a parking space along the boulevard opposite the Thompson residence on Main street.

Thursday afternoon a prominent group of sightseers viewed the reservoir from vantage points at West Shokan Heights. Included in the party were Fred Terwilliger of Tillson, widely known automobile salesman; Hubert Jipp and sisters, Sophie and Helen, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Henry Gloistein of Tillson. The West Shokan Heights section was a favorite social center frequented by Mr. Terwilliger when he was a West Shokan resident in the good old days, gone but not forgotten, down on the farm.

Mrs. Lydie Scott of Bonnie Brae Cottage, North Boulevard, returned Thursday afternoon after a two-days' trip to New York city, where she spent a delightful afternoon with with her former chemistry student, Miss Mariam Davis, now in training in St. Luke's Hospital.

Mrs. Lauren Hesley of Main street returned home Thursday after a short stay in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Myers of Samsonville are receiving congratulations over the arrival of an heir born Thursday morning in the Benedictine Hospital.

Robert G. Knorpp of Main street is spending the week in Brooklyn on a business trip.

Judge and Mrs. Lester S. Davis of Main street were numbered among the sports-loving thousands attending the big time horse racing in Goshen Wednesday.

Despite the threatening weather, Elwyn Davis succeeded in completing his oats threshing Thursday afternoon.

One of the Esopus valley's outshining social affairs of the week-end is the Saturday night dance at Colange Hall.

Sunday school will be held at 1 p. m. Sunday at the Baptist Community Church. Preaching service will follow at 2 o'clock. All are most cordially welcome.

WHY Cats' Eyes Are So Easily Seen on a Dark Night

Have you ever wondered why it is you can see the eyes of a cat gleaming in the dark, while the eyes of humans and certain other animals do not have this effect? The reason for this phenomenon, says Pathfinder Magazine, is that cats and other nocturnal animals are equipped with a special reflecting membrane in the back of the eye, which makes the eye more sensitive in semi-darkness by focusing all the light possible upon the retina. It is this reflected light that we see when a cat watches us in the dark. Human eyes lacking in pigment, and especially albinos, explains the Better Vision bureau, may also glisten in the dark, but the pigment of normal eyes will absorb the light.

It was the eye of the cat that suggested the invention of the signs you see on the roads to warm autoists to stop. While these signs are not lighted, they reflect the light of any approaching auto whose lamps are lighted. The signs are made up of a number of glass or metallic plates which are set at such an angle that the light is thrown back.

These signs of course are much cheaper than signs which require the use of electric current.

Why Gibraltar Monkeys Are Given Special Care

Do you know that there is an Officer in Charge of Apes at Gibraltar, and that a grant of money for looking after these mischievous animals is included in the colony's official estimates every year?

These apes, of which, since the arrival of two babies the other day (there are ten now), are the last wild monkeys in Europe. But that isn't the only reason why they are preserved so carefully, or why it is a crime to injure or molest them, in spite of the damage they do.

The animals are favored for a very special reason. There is a legend, which says: "As long as the apes inhabit Gibraltar, Britain will keep possession of the Rock."

Now, the British authorities aren't superstitious—but they know that the legend is believed implicitly by the people of Gibraltar. So it is good policy that the apes should be preserved.—Answers Magazine.

Why Big Ben Is Faulty

How many people know that the note of Big Ben is faulty? This famous bell cracked soon after it was placed in position, and was out of use for some years. Then it was partially turned around, so that the hammer-strokes—it is struck by a hammer, instead of being swung, to produce its note—should fall on a different expanse of metal.

The result is the note which we know—and which Britons all over the world have learned to love. Now, however, a proposal has been made that the bell should be taken down and recast, so that it should get a "true" note instead of the one to which we have grown accustomed.

The case for recasting is plausible enough, and this is just the sort of thing that officialdom, careless of sentiment, very often does.

Fortunately, to take down the bell would be an expensive business, and, as these are days of economy, it is probable that this will save the Big Ben we know.—London Mail.

Why Safes Resist Acetylene

Modern safes which are constructed to resist the oxy-acetylene cutting blow-pipe are made of ferrous alloys which, although they can be heated by the gas flame to their melting point, cannot be cut, like steel, by the application of a stream of pure oxygen. It is essential that the walls and doors of such safes be of considerable thickness. The walls, roof and floor are lined with steel and flame-resisting alloy so that a self-contained safe exists inside the concrete shell.

Why We Are All Different

The question why every person on earth is in some way different from every other, even twins and triplets, was answered by Dr. Dimitry Borodin, of New York. Doctor Borodin said he had discovered a short form of ultra violet light which was generated and radiated by every person and which was responsible for the "mutations" of heredity. But these "life" rays are far shorter than any visible light rays and therefore imperceptible to the average scientific instrument.

Why Bowie Knife So Called

The bowie knife is named for Col. James Bowie, who introduced it in Texas. According to one account, Colonel Bowie had occasion to fight with a broken sword and found it so effective that he equipped his men with long, dagger-shaped knives. They were, however, sharp on one edge only. Since knives quite similar in design were in use in Mexico it is probable that the idea was gained from them.

Why It Is Called Bone China

Bone china is the porcelain in which bone ash is an important constituent. It is made almost entirely in England. Bone ash is a white friable substance obtained by burning bones, which are composed mainly of calcium phosphate.

Why "Bitter End"

Originally nautical, the expression bitter end refers to "bitts"—pieces of timber to which ships, riding at anchor, may be fastened. Paying out the rope to the bitter end meant that there was no more to let go.

Colluvial Soil Materials

Where rocks break off from overhanging cliffs and accumulate below merely by the force of gravity the material is said to be "colluvial," and the inclined, broken masses of rocks are often referred to as "talus" slopes.

NEW YORK PLANS TO OUTLAW ITS SLUMS

Projects Under Way Will Cost Many Millions.

New York.—They are going to outlaw slums in New York city—some day—maybe.

The big drive toward this Utopian goal is already under way. After many years of agitating, planning, bickering and otherwise mulling over the problem, the city has finally cut loose with measures definitely designed to eliminate two of the so-called "plague spots" with modern housing developments and is turning over a third with a view to early action of some kind. At least two other projects are under consideration.

The five enterprises look to the expenditure of something like $75,000,000 on up to date, fireproof, sanitary housing to provide cheap rental living quarters to replace the rat-infested, disease-breeding hovels and tumbledown rookeries now disgracing the affected localities or but lately removed preparatory to the "developments."

City Government Aids.

While none of the so-called "elimination" plans is a city project, the municipal government is lending its aid and encouragement to the movement in a general way and is undertaking to help out with street closing and tax exemptions, leaving the financing and management of the houses to private capital. Most of the schemes, incidentally, are conditioned on the outcome of applications for loans from the Federal Reconstruction Finance corporation as well as on petitions for city aid in the way of tax exemptions, etc.

One of them, i. e., the Fred F. French Operators plan for replacing the so-called "Lung Block" on Manhattan's East side with a $9,300,000 development, to be known as "Knickerbocker Village" has already obtained an R. F. C. loan for $8,075,000 as a running start toward actual fulfillment. In announcing its approval of the loan, the corporations's board had some nice things to say of the project, among them observing that:

"The site of the development is in the heart of New York city's heaviest tuberculosis casualty areas of the period immediately preceding and following the turn of the century. . . . The building of a modern, clean, light, apartment community will eliminate a potential disease-spreading block of buildings. The 'Lung Block' alone accounted for 291 cases of tuberculosis between the years 1894-1904. Only two houses of the block have been free from the disease."

Each building of the village will be of hollow square construction, providing a large interior court. Light and sunshine will be insured for every apartment.

It is estimated that this project will furnish employment to about 10,000 men directly or indirectly for a year or more.

Plan Cheap Rentals.

Another project on the way to actual fulfillment is known as the Chrystie-Forsyth street development plan, looking to the improvement of some seven blocks of the lower East side—five of them with modern apartments for "rock-bottom" rentals to white-collar workers and the other two with parks.

The total estimated investment in the buildings will therefore be $9,289,708. The published value of $12,789,708 for the development was explained recently as including a figure of $3,500,000 to represent the value of the city leasehold.

Another slum elimination project that is looking up in spite of the depression is that known as the Rutgerstown plan, which involves the proposed expenditure of some $40,000,000 in a model housing development on the East side, just below Manhattan bridge.

The development plan includes an interior park and roof playgrounds. Each building is to be a separate unit, 12 stories high. Backers of the project are withholding a start of operations, pending action on their application for tax exemption.

The Hillside Housing corporation has the plans all drawn for a big housing project to wipe out a slum area in the Bronx, but there has been some hitch in its plans for wheedling a $4,000,000 loan out of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the enterprise is not going so well.

Other projects in a more or less nebulous state look to the elimination of slum areas in Brooklyn and Queens.

Term "Poilu" Is Limited to Front Line Fighters

Paris.—Only the front-line fighting troops of the World war have the right to the famous appellation of "Poilu."

This is the dictum of the dictionary committee of the French academy, which has recommended the inclusion of the word "Poilu" in the next edition of the Academy dictionary with the definition: "French soldier of the front-line trenches during the war of 1914-18."

Popularly the term since the war has always been used for any soldier of the war who wore the uniform, and is now often affectionately applied to the soldiers of the present French army.

C. C. C. Camp in Utah Being Modernized

232nd C. C. C.,
Bountiful, Utah,
August 13, 1933.

Dear Editor:

We, the boys of Kingston of the 232nd Company of C. C. C., wish to thank you very much for putting our other writeups in your paper. We would be very glad if you would put this one in as follows:

Dear Friends and Relatives:

Through the courtesy of the Kingston Daily Freeman we are able to let you know what is going on out here in the state of Utah. We now have our mess hall completed, which is 20x144 feet and has a seating capacity of 192 at 12 separate tables, which are made with benches attached to them. This sure is a great deal better way of eating. Before we had to eat in the hot sun, and I mean it sure was hot. We also have all our tents floored and our showers are completed, which are in a building 20x40 feet and there is a good place built on the side to wash. We have hot and cold water for the showers most of the time. We have built a canteen also which is a building about 8x10 feet, where we can purchase articles, such as soap, cigarettes, tobacco, gum, candy, peanuts, stamps, etc. Since everything is built up now we have a good place to play ball and horseshoes on our days off and after supper nights.

On the evening of August 3, the secretary of war was here to visit us. He gave a short talk on the doings and happenings at other camps and finally ended his speech with saying that the 232nd C. C. C. was one of the best that he had seen so far, and said that was saying a good deal as there are many good camps in this section. Our camp is named after him, "Camp Dern." After the talk he shook hands with each and every man in our company. Some of the fellows who had cameras took his picture. Shortly after this he left our camp for some other camp in this section.

This past Friday night a cameraman was here at our camp taking all kinds of pictures of our camp, among which was one of our entire company.

Well, last Friday night we had another good card of boxing bouts, one of which was between a fellow from Ellenville, by the name of "Abe" MacEntee, and a man from Bountiful by the name of G. Van Fleet. After three fast rounds MacEntee was given a very popular decision. Another match was between Frank Cashman of Glasco, and a brother of the man who MacEntee fought, by the name of W. Van Fleet. After three hard rounds of fighting it was called a draw and it could be nothing but a draw as it sure was a very even match to witness.

In the last letter I told you how hot it was out here; since that it has got much cooler, especially early in the morning when we get up for roll call. But this change in the temperature sure suits all of us a good deal. We have had no rain since my last writing.

Our church services have been changed as follows: Episcopal services on Sunday evenings at 7:30 o'clock and the Mormon services on Monday nights at 7:30 o'clock. Both of these are very inspiring and interesting services.

Well folks I can't think of anything more to say now so I will have to call it a stop. With the best of wishes to all.

Sincerely yours,
ANDREW PLAPP, JR.

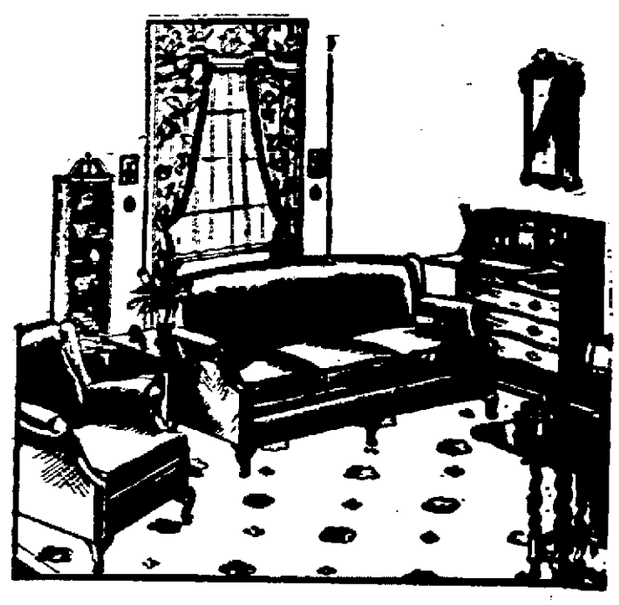

Banner Month for Sale of Frigidaires

The month of August thus far has been a banner month for the sale of Frigidaires by Rose & Gorman, local distributors. Usually the early summer months are the big selling months for electric refrigerators with sales tapering off as the summer advances and cool fall days approach. However this has not been the case with the R. & G. store this season. August sales have been in excess of early months and on one day in August six Frigidaires were sold and on another day four were sold. This is an indication of increased business activities in Kingston. The New York Frigidaire company, notified of this unusual activity in Kingston, has asked where all of the refrigerators are going at this usual end of the season time.

Free Supper Saturday.

A free supper of spaghetti and meat balls will be held at the Subway Grill, 235 Hasbrouck avenue, Saturday evening.

"High Grade But Not High Priced."

NRA
In Good Furniture While It Still Is At Bottom Prices

You can buy at Stock & Cordts' at bottom prices because our large up-to-date stock was bought before the advance in prices, and our stock is still marked at the old low prices. We couldn't possibly offer the low prices if we were buying today.

If you need furniture now or shortly, we can't emphasize too strongly the wisdom of buying now, while it is still at the lowest level of the lowest prices you are ever likely to see.
